NEW CANADIAN TARIFF EFFECT IS HELD SMALL

Commerce Official Says U. S. Loss May Be $25,000,000.

ONLY 4 PER CENT OF EXPORTS ON LIST

Secretary of State Indicates This Government Will Not Protest Schedule.

(Associated Press.)

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Klein yesterday declared that the new Canadian tariff imperils approximately $25,000,000 of American exports.

The figure represents slightly less than 4 per cent of American exports to Canada in 1930, he said.

Canada, he added, "is obviously and quite naturally putting herself in a favorable position" in preparation for conferences on reciprocal tariff among the British Dominion next fall.

He cited a serious unemployment problem in Canada as one reason for the new rates.

U. S. Protocol Unlikely.

Klein's statement was issued after a day in which the administration indicated the new Canadian rates will not be protested. Secretary of State Stimson said the Government considers the tariff a purely domestic question.

"The increased Canadian tariff," said Klein, "definitely imperils approximately $25,000,000 of American exports. This represents slightly less than 4 per cent of the total of our exports through the Dominion in 1930.

"It is obvious from a study of the commodities involved that a considerable portion of the increases have been made in preparation for the forthcoming conferences on reciprocal tariffs among the British Dominions which is to take place next fall. Canada is obviously and quite naturally putting herself in a favorable position for these negotiations.

Canada's Policy "Inevitable."

"It should be remembered that Canada, like all economically new lands, has for years been using high protective tariff to develop a more evenly balanced economy. Her excessive seasonal variation makes such a policy inevitable as a means of equalizing employment irregularities. Incidentally, for a comparatively new coun country, her unemployment prob problem has in recent months been of serious proportions, which again suggests one reason for the new tariff rates.

"The Canadian tariff even before the recent changes yielded a ratio of customs revenue to total imports of nearly 15 per cent as against 13.5 per cent in the case of the United States in 1929. Furthermore, as an additional measure of Canada's protective policy, it may be noted that her receipts on dutiable imports per capita in 1929 were $78.49 as against $12.71 for the United States.

Partisan Dispute Continues.

"American investments in Canada now total between $3,800,000,000 and $3,900,000,000, which affords some measure of our stake in the stability and strength of the Canadian economic situation. British holdings in the Dominion total about $2,300,000,000."

Meanwhile, Representative Collier, of Mississippi, a ranking Democrat on the House ways and means committee, said through the Democratic national committee that "Canada is merely returning blow for blow."

"Our foolish tariff policy is killing the goose that lays the golden egg of commerce," he added, "and the effect is felt not only by manufacturers but especially by our laboring classes."

Earlier, Senator Goldsborough, of Maryland, issued through the Republican national committee a reply to Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi.

He said Prime Minister Bennett had denied the new Canadian duties "are by way of retaliation against the American tariff act," but that this had been ignored in a statement by the Mississippian.

A prediction was made Tuesday night by Chairman Shouse, of the Democratic national executive committee, that his party would accept the Hawley-Smoot tariff as an issue in 1932.

FAVORITE LEADING ENGLISH DERBY AT FINISH

BISHOP CANNON SUES TINKHAM FOR LIBEL

Representative Is Accused of Malicious Claims in $50,000 Action.

Representative George H. Tinkham, of Massachusetts, was named defendant in a suit for $500,000 damages filed yesterday in the District Supreme Court by Bishop James Cannon, jr. The suit charges that Tinkham, after purposely divesting himself of his congressional immunity, gave out for publication and "caused to be published throughout the world" a "scandalous libel" concerning the militant churchman.

Bishop Cannon's suit asserts that on June 20, 1930, Representative Tinkham gave to the press a statement in which he expressly waived his immunity. This statement charged that Bishop Cannon "was a shameless violator of the Federal corrupt practices act, a criminal statute, that he received $65,000 from a New York capitalist, Mr. Jameson, during the 1928 elections, and illegally concealed the receipt of all this money until February 15, 1929, and has not yet accounted for $48,300 of this amount, refusing to do so before the Senate lobby investigating committee."

The allegation is offered that the "innuendo of the statement was to the effect that "your plaintiff was corruptly profited personally. The guilty of a grave crime, and that he bishop says that he felt it was 'his sacred and solemn duty to take an active part in the 1926 campaign.'". His position as chairman of the committee on temperance and morals called upon him, he said, to take an active hand in the elections.

The statements were "malicious, false and fraudulent," he claims, and he has only "refused as a free and independent American citizen to subject himself without righteous resentment of, and realstance to, the unjust and unscrupulous attacks by certain political officials who have ruthlessly and wickedly sought to obtain political prestige, favor and notoriety for themselves at the expense of the plaintiff."

The allegation of the suit declares that Bishop Cannon has been held up to "scorn, scandal, infamy, and disgrace" and that "his good name, fame and reputation have been injured."

He asks for $250,000 compensatory damages and $250,000 punitive damages. Attorney Robert H. McNeill represented Bishop Cannon in filing the suit.

Boston, June 3 (A.P.).—Representative George Holden Tinkham, who was sued today by Bishop James Cannon, jr., for criminal libel, issued the following statement:

"I have not seen Bishop Cannon's complaint. I suppose it relates to a

Children Must Be Six To Enroll in First Grade

A recent act of Congress preventing children under 5 from entering kindegarten prompted the Board of Education yesterday to appy the same rule to children entering the first grade.

Before the new law was made, children who were not quite five when schools opened were allowed to enter kindergarten. The same rule applied to children not quite 6 desiring to enter the first grade. Now children will have to be actually 5 before they can go to kindergarten and 6 before they will be admitted to the first grade.

STEP TAKEN TO END SCHOOL CONGESTION

Many Buildings Reorganized by Board; Two Removed From White Division.

Reorganization of a large number of schools with the view of relieving congestion was approved by the Board of Education yesterday.

Important among the changes will be the transfer of the Greenleaf and Monroe Schools from the white to colored divisions. This will relieve congestion at a number of colored schools and will save the expense of building new schools.

The ninth division is composed of typical and ungraded schools and special activities will be elliminated. These schools will be distributed among the other divisions. This change is brought about by the resignation of Walter B. Patterson, who had charge of all special activities. Mr. Patterson's successor, yet to be appointed, will be known as director of summer and night schools.

Mrs. A. I. Kinnear, principal of the Columbia Junior High School, which is to be used as an annex to the Powell, was appointed principal of the Eliot Junior High. Miss Bertie Backus, principal of the Powell Junoir High, was appointed principal of the Deal Junior High. The two principals expressed a desire to be appointed to these specific schools, it was announced.

Lester P. Walker, general science teacher at the Columbia Junior High School, was appointed principal of the Powell. He is a graduate of the Pennsylvania State Normal School and has an M. A. degree from George Washington University. He is well known throughout the local public school system and was recommended for the appointment by a number of parents and associations.

BOSTON MAN WINS $154,000 ON DERBY

$12-a-Week Repairer Holds Lucky Ticket on Cameronian in Classic.

Boston, June 3 (A.P.).—Joseph Kennedy, 32, South End Negro holding a $12-a-week job, heard today he had won $154,000 as one of the American holders of lucky tickets on Cameronian, winner of the Derby at Epsom Downs.

Kennedy received a cablegram last week telling him that he had drawn Cameronian and he has put his ticket in a Boston bank, so he was not worried over the claims from London of friends of Joseph Kennedy, oiler on the ship American Banker, that the latter was the real winner.

The Boston Negro lost a $35-a-week job several months ago. For many weeks he lived from hand to mouth and was unable to help the wife and three children he had sent to Jamaica when times were better until he landed his present job with the Morgan Memorial, a charitable organization. There he repairs baby carriages and toys, castoffs by the well-to-do to be distributed by the Memorial to the poor.

Kennedy was given a half hour off to hear the broadcast of the race today and when he heard that Cameronian had won he sent a cable to his wife at Spanish Town, Jamaica, telling her of his good fortune. He said he would go to Jamaica and bring his family back. He plans to buy a home and give his boy and girl a college education.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, June 3 (A.P.).—First prizes of $136,399 each in the Quebec Army and Navy Veterans sweepstakes run in connection with the English Derby today go to Louis Tanner, Hopkinsville, Ky., and C. M. Peterson, of Tulsa, Okla., both of them having drawn Cameronian, the winning horse.

Orpen ran second in the Derby and brought $68,199 each as second prize money in the sweep to J. A. Wagner, Chicago, and Miss Rita Rivet, of Montreal.

Third prize money totals $34,099 each for M. Bijhkildonan, Manitoba,

ARRESTS LOOM IN KILLING AND LEGATION CASE

Cunningham Was Slain, Envoy Fired On by Same Weapon.

EXPERT MAKES TESTS AS PISTOL IS FOUND

Jack O'Hearne's Place Is Ordered Padlocked as Result of Search.

The men who killed Jack H. Cunningham, slain police informer, and who attacked Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, charge d'affaires of the Legation of El Salvador, are known to police and arrests in the cases are imminent.

There is little chance that the police will trace the .45 caliber revolver, which, it has been found, was used in both cases, to the men under suspicion. Police say they have sufficient information upon which to base their suspicions of the men.

Lieut. John H. Fowler, who found upon ballistics examination that the shots fired at Dr. Leiva and the shot which killed Cunningham were fired from the same gun, has reported to his superiors that the pistol was of a type manufactured for the Army in 1917.

This gun, he reported, is a .45 caliber revolver which can discharge steel jacketed bullets. This type was used in the assault on the diplomat and the killing of Cunningham.

Was Special Type Gun.

Although the numbers of the pistol were filed off before it was found by a District employe on Lincoln road near Trinity College northeast, Lieut. Fowler reported that he found a number inside the gun, which convinced him it was one of 150,000 special type guns, made by the Colt Firearms Co. during the World War. The low number he found, he reported, demonstrated that it was one of this batch, and consequently would be difficult to trace to the latest owner.

Directly after the war, he reported, the firearms company placed its surplus of this type of gun on the open market.

Police have refused to reveal the identities of the men sought in both cases. No general lookouts have been broadcast for them. However, the police are convinced that all of the men involved have not left the city, and the police raids on gambling houses and speakeasies will continue in the hope of picking up a lead which will bring the policemen to their quarry.

Predict Roundup of Gang.

Not all of the band that participated in the legation liquor theft are implicated in the Cunningham slaying, according to police, but the entire band, they predict, will be rounded up within a few weeks.

Apart from the ballistics evidence which links both crimes, there is not a doubt in the minds of the police that the Cunningham case is the aftermath of the legation theft.

Lieut. Fowler found that the bullet fired at Dr. Leiva was somewhat mutilated by its contact with the ceiling in the legation. There were sufficient traces, however, to find that it compared with the bullet taken from Cunningham's stomach.

When Lieut. Fowler found that the bullet in each case had been fired from the same gun, he compared each bullet with test shots fired from

DUCE HITS CATHOLICS, DECLARES WAR ON ENEMIES OF FASCISM

Stimson Trip Abroad Held of Great Import

World Politics, Disarmament and Other Outstanding Issues May Be Discussed on "Vacation" Visit to Italy, France, Germany, England.

(United Press.)

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, announced yesterday that he would go to Europe on a two months "vacation" tour during which he will visit four world powers—Great Britain, Germany, France and Italy.

His visit may have far-reaching importance to the immediate future of international politics. He plans to leave at the end of this month, proceeding first to Italy, then to France, Germany and Great Britain in turn—an itinerary happily, if accidentally, arranged so far as its diplomatic aspect is concerned. It will take him to the warmer countries first, in point of climate, but to the warmer countries diplomatically after he has had the opinions of the two Latin powers—Germany, still on the defensive, and Great Britain, still holding the balance of power in Europe.

It is understood that Secretary Stimson will talk at length with the foreign ministers of the powers regarding world politics, and his visit may Churchmen Are Arrested; Face Exile in Latest Italian Crisis.

VATICAN DENOUNCES MUSSOLINI'S ACTION

Order Ending Religious Societies Is Branded as Treaty Violation.

Rome, June 3 (A.P.). — Premier Mussolini today declared war on anti-Fascism in Italy, "under whatever banner," and, according to news from the Vatican, at least one of the Catholic Action Society leaders was under arrest.

The one Catholic Action leader named by the Vatican as having been arrested was an attorney named Corsanego. It was said he probably soon would be on his way to political exile on the Island of Lipari.

Other reports said a dozen of the Catholic Action leaders had been arrested in various cities. It was said they were all men who had opposed Fascism previously.

Sacrifices Urged to Defend Fascism.

Premier Mussolini's "declaration of war" against anti-Fascists was made at a special meeting of a small body of Fascist leaders which forms the directorate of the party. The premier presided at the meeting, and it was said he definitely mentioned the Catholic Action Society.

Orders were issued to the 9,000 Fascist groups in Italy, with more than 1,000,000 active members, to be guided by the thought that Fascism "is firmly determined not to permit whatever remained of anti-Fascism, and which thus far has been spared, to find refuge and protection."

The groups were told that those who gave their lives for Fascism "demanded that it be defended at any cost."

Open Hostility Charged.

The directorate charged that some sections of the Catholic Action Society had been "openly and surreptitiously hostile" to Fascism.

With this blunt statement of policy the Duce and his group of leaders began to formulate plans to take into Fascism's fold the young Catholics from the dissolved groups. Various provisions were made to strengthen the Fascist groups of men, women and youths, with the idea of making them into a stronger body able to incorporate thousands of new recruits.

Catholic youths who may wish to join the Fascist clubs, however, would have to hurry, it was said, because a time limit has been placed on recruiting in some sections.

Pope Charges Law Violation.

In a speech to the College of Chaplains of Immigrants, reported today in the newspaper, Osservatore Romano, Pope Pius XI was quoted as having said last night that the dissolution of the Catholic youth clubs violated the right of the church to form and guide young people and that it also violated the natural law, "made for the good of souls."

He denounced the government's official communique, which asserted that Catholic societies "not directly connected with the national Fascist party" had been dissolved, "without the slightest incident."

Referring to the phrase "without the slightest incident," the pontiff declared:

"That expression is worth a treasury. It is enough to think of all the incidents, the irreverences, indecencies and vandalism in Rome and in smaller cities; in the edifices which enjoy extraterritoriality. It is enough to consider the offenses to the person of the supreme pontiff.

Number of Arrests Kept Secret.

"This procedure of dissolution was not taken by legal means because the Catholic Action Society is under the protection of the concordat, which has become the law of the state and is supported by a bilateral pact. This was taken under orders from the police."

It was "ridiculous," the Pope said, that any one should accuse orgaplzations of Catholic young women of engaging in politics and equally ridiculous to lay the same charges against organizations of Catholic young men which in the past few years have given 5,400 priests to the church.

"There is, however, this consolation," he said. "If the devil has not

SMALLER WARSHIPS FAVORED BY FRANCE

Deputies Advance Movement to Reduce Authorized Size of Vessels.

Paris, June 3 (A.P.).—A movement to reduce the size of battleships from the 35,000 tons authorized by the Washington Naval Treaty to a considerably lower tonnage, took on new force today during a committee meeting of the French Chamber of Deputies.

Construction of three 23,333-ton ships of the line instead of two ships of 35,000 tonnage during 1931-36 was advocated by Charles Dumont, minister of marine. Only one of these would be built during 1931-32.

The finance committee approved his proposal and also ratified the building program for 1931-32, which includes one 23,333-ton vessel, two secondary cruisers, one coastwise transport and a dispatch boat.

The entire naval question is scheduled for debate in the Chamber of Deputies next Tuesday.

The minister of marine indicated that the general total of construction credits would be approximately $42,000,000 for 70,000 tons of ships, in addition to about $800,000 left over from the previous budget.

By his statement today M. Dumont showed he is following the British trend which for some time has been in favor of reduction of the size of battleships.

It is believed the question will arise again during the general disarmament conference in Geneva next year. A discussion is likely then, although nations which signed the Washington Treaty are authorized to build 35,000 ton ships until 1936, when the treaty is renewable.

Both Great Britain and France hope to get an international agreement in 1936, limiting the tonnage of ships of the line on the ground that the 35,000-ton units are not utilizable, but hitherto the United States has favored larger vessels and Japan also will have a voice in the matter.

Binding Bank Clerks, Robber Gets $6,600

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 3 (A.P.). A robber armed with a shotgun looted the Highland Park branch of the Hamilton National Bank here of $6,600 early today.

He broke into the bank through a skylight and awaited the arrival of employes. He held them up and handcuffed them one by one as they arrived for work and then made Paul Northern, assistant cashier, open the vault. The robber took all the money he could find and escaped in an automobile.

INDUSTRIALISTS ASK FRANCO-SOVIET PACT

Paris Says Trade Interests Have Suffered Through Other Treaties.

Paris, June 3 (A.P.).—Pressure from industrialists, who are said to be suffering as a result of recent trade treaties between Russia and Italy and Russia and Germany, is given in official circles as the basis for a French desire to negotiate a business pact with the Soviet government.

The foreign office said today that a Russian delegation will arrive here in a few days presumably empowered to negotiate such a trade agreement.

It was revealed that this same Soviet group visited the French capital shortly after Germany concluded her trade treaty with Moscow. After secret conversations the delegation returned to Russia, ostensibly with proposals for such an agreement.

It is shown that Franco-Russian trade favors the latter country as in the first three months of this year France imported approximately $4,440,000 worth of goods from Russia and exported only about $580,000. France buys principally oil and wood from the Soviet union.

These figures are considerably below those of last year, the down trend being attributed to France's institution of the license system last October and to Russia's treaties with Germany and Italy.

Farmers Repaying Drought Aid Loans

Many Advances Returned in Full; All Are Due Next November.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hyde said yesterday that many farmers had repaid in full or partially drought loans made from the Government's $67,000,000 emergency fund. No figures were given, but the Agriculture Secretary pointed out that several thousand had found they did not need the full amount, and returned several installments, while others have repaid their loans with the proceeds of early fruit and vegetable crops.

Slightly more than $45,000,000 has been loaned to drought sufferers to plant the year's crops. All the loans must be repaid by next November.

Mr. Hyde said the tendency to make early repayments is an "indication of the same sturdy spirit of thrift and independence which we have learned to expect from farmers, and foreshadows the repayment in full of a large percentage of the loans made."

World Silver Meeting Obstructed by Powers

Opposition of Great Britain and France Is Believed to Have Prevented Fruition of Conference Plan Fostered by This Country.

(Associated Press.)

Opposition by Great Britain and France to an international silver conference was said yesterday in authoritative circles to have resulted in failure of the United States to arrange such a parley.

Great Britain was opposed to the conference because of its direct interest through the silver situation in India. France opposed such action because it lacked direct interest. Participation of these two nations was considered necessary for the success of a conference.

State Department officials expressed disappointment over their failure to shape something definite to alleviate the world silver problem. Both China and Japan were favorable to a conference and were willing to cooperate in any effort to adjust the silver situation.

Meanwhile, significance was seen in a proposal by Senator Smoot, of Utah, at Salt Lake City that the International Chamber of Commerce call a silver conference.

It was considered significant because it was made following receipt of a telegram from President Hoover saying informal conferences with other nations had developed opposition to an official parley. However, there was no comment at the White House.

Calling of a conference already has been discussed with interested officials of the international chamber, which recently went on record as favoring a world parley. No decision as to whether the chamber would call a meeting was reached.

President Hoover has been urged repeatedly by Western senators and representatives to have this Government call an international conference

French Fly Over Isles Fortified by Germany

Norderney, Germany, June 3 (A.P.). Three French naval seaplanes, flying low, this morning passed over German territorial waters along the East Frisian Islands, from Sylt southward. Since Borkum and Norderney, over which they appeared later, are fortified islands, it was believed here that they were inspecting Germany's coastal defenses.

A French military plant, carrying two sergeants, landed tonight at Enkenbach, more than 300 miles on the German side of the frontier. The aviators said they had lost their bearings.

2 Young Men Save Woman From Niagara Falls Death

Rescuers, at Great Risk of Life, Plunge Into River Just Above Precipice and Drag Unconscious Stranger to Shore.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 3 (U.P.). Edward De Ruscio, 20, and his cousin, Leonard, 23, tonight told how they plunged into the roaring, tumbling waters of the Niagara River a short distance above the American Falls and saved a woman who said her name was "Smith."

The rescue was described as one of the most thrilling on the river in years, by Francis Seyfried, superintendent of the park, who said the boys, as they came out of the river, "were trembling like leaves, apparently just realizing the danger they had faced."

Edward, who first plunged into what seemed to onlookers might be certain death laughed as he was told he might be given a Carnegie Medal for his act, and when told that it might require a year or longer, responded:

"Well, guess we'll stick around a couple of weeks, then."

The boys came here from Chicago Heights, Ill., to visit friends. They had planned to return tonight. This afternoon they sat among the shade trees that line the river just above the American falls. At that point the river is shallow, but roars and tumbles over weather-worn and water-worn rocks.

"We were sitting in our automobile about 200 feet from where the woman went in," Edward said, "and she had been walking up and down the bank.

Baptists See Birth Control Too Little Cause for Split

Convention Holds Federal Council Symbol of Essential Unity of Protestantism; Refuses to Consider International Relations and Labor Strikes.

Kansas City, June 3 (A.P.).—The executive committee today declined to place before the Northern Baptist Convention in session here resolutions objecting to pronouncements of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ on Birth Control, International Relations and Labor Strikes.

In making known its decision the committee stated "its conviction of the importance of some symbol of the essential unity of Protestantism, andthat in this junction the Federal Council is most suitable as such a symbol."

The objections were voiced by the Rhode Island State convention which urged the general convention to examine its relations to the council, of which it is a member, declaring that the council "seems to have departed considerably from its original purpose."

Nearly 3,000 delegates were present, among them sixteen Indian missionaries from Oklahoma, when the convention president, Dr. Albert W. Beaven, of Rochester, N. Y., directed their attention to the convention theme "Christians in a Changing World."

It pictured a world wherein rapid economic and political transition had upset centuries-old ideals of government and wrought violent confusion in theories of human relationships.

Intelligence and purpose were named as the means for solving these been tranquil, but has shown himself discontented, it is a certain sign that we are doing some good."

The government tonight refused all information on the number of arrests.

The Fascist directorate also decided that a mass meeting of Fascists will be held next month and a big "first decennial exposition of the Fascist revolution" will be held in Rome, opening on October 27, the anniversary of the eve of the Fascist "march on Rome." It will continue until March 23 of next year, the anniversary of the founding of Fascism.

SILVER CONFERENCE BALKED BY POWERS

to discuss the silver situation. This also was recommended by a Senate committee which studies the depressed price of silver.

Unofficial Silver Meeting Now Proposed by Smoot

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 3 (A.P.).—An unofficial world conference on silver stabilization, to meet preferably in London, was suggested today by Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, after he had been advised by President Hoover that foreign nations approached on the subject of an official parley had rejected the American proposal.

He said he had no doubt that the United States would cooperate and added nothing could be accomplished without the cooperation of "India, China, British Dominions, France, Japan, Italy and other principal continental countries."

Senator Smoot made public a message from Mr. Hoover in which the President stated "informal discussions among nations, some of whose participation is vitally necessary, develop the fact that they do not consider this a proper time to call an international conference on silver and would oppose holding such a conference now."

Nanking, China, June 3 (A.P.).—Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, who is in China to study the silver problem, reached Nanking this morning and spent the day conferring with government leaders.

"Today's visits are only courtesy calls," said Pittman. "I am returning later for a serious discussion of financial questions."

The senator will return to Shanghai tonight.

new problems "and on our ability to combine these two hangs the future of our civilization, as I see it," he said.

In applying the convention theme to America, Rev. Charles Lyon Seasholes, of Dayton, Ohio, asked "Is the highest life of the spirit possible in the age of the machine? or must we acknowledge that Christianity is incompatible with modern industrial civilization?"

America, he said, occupies a crucial position in determining this issue.

Dr. Joseph C. Hazen, of East Orange, N. J., secretary of the finance committee, announced that of the 58 participating organizations of the convention, only two national societies reported deficits for the year. The board of education had a deficit of $4,042, and the Woman's American Baptist Home Mission Society $16,395. Of the 38 State conventions 15 reported deficits totaling $48,418, and five of the 13 city mission societies had deficits totaling $30,256.

The denominational budget for the year is $5,100,000, but only a portion of it will be expended.

Man Killed, 3 Injured In Auto-Truck Crash

Baltimore, Md., June 3 (A.P.).—One man was killed and three injured today when their automobile struck a motor truck and caught fire. Police and nearby residents extricated the three injured. The man killed was Samuel Bosley.

Physicians said George Red Grave, 29, driver of the passenger car, was critically hurt.

MILLS FAMILY GOES TO BOWLES DEFENSE

Principals on Witness Stand in May Suit Against Virginia Banker.

Relations between B. Agee Bowles, Georgetown banker, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray T. Mills, of Falls Church, Va., were of a "purely business nature," Mr. Bowles testified yesterday in the $20,000 damage suit brought against him in the Fairfax County Circuit Court.

The suit, brought by Mrs. Mae B. Way, of Falls Church, charges she suffered a paralytic stroke after the vice president of the Potomac Savings Bank appeared at her home and "loudly threatened" to have her put in jail because of statements she was alleged to have spread about Bowles and Mrs. Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills, their 13-year-old daughter, Helen, and Bowles all took the stand for the defense yesterday. The Georgetown banker had scarcely begun his testimony, however, before the court adjourned for the day.

February Visit Admitted.

He admitted he made a visit to the May home in February, 1930, as charged in the petition of the plaintiff. He said he went there in his own defense after Mr. Mills had told him the Mays were circulating statements that "reflected upon my reputation and character and that of Mrs. Mills."

He vigorously denied he had ever had any improper relations with Mrs. Mills or had ever bought her any presents, despite testimony of Mr. and Mrs. May concerning stories allegedly told them by 13-year-old Helen Mills.

He said he first met Mrs. Mills when he went to her home to investigate an application for a loan made with his bank by her husband. At one time he said he held title to the Mills home, as security on loans made them, but that this title had been conveyed back to Mr. Mills as soon as he had shown his ability to pay. He said he was frequently consulted by Mills about business matters, and had often advised him on the conduct of a dairy operated by Mr. Mills.

Bowles Described as Gentleman.

Earlier both Mr. and Mrs. Mills had given similar testimony. Mrs. Mills said Bowles had "never approached her in any other way than as a gentleman." She denied ever receiving any gifts from him, with the exception of a clock given her and her husband on Christmas, 1929. Mr. Bowles, she said, had once obtained circus tickets for them at the request of her husband.

Mr. Mills testified that Mr. Bowles had greatly aided him in building up his business. He produced title in his own name to a car Mr. Mills had bought. Once, he said, Mr. Bowles had procured for him $35 in silver dollars, for Mr. Mills to give his wife on her birthday.

"Mr. Bowles has always been welcome to my home and always will be, and he does not have to report to the neighbors when he comes in," Mills said.

Child Tells of Questioning.

Helen Mills denied on the stand she had ever told Mrs. May anything concerning her mother and Bowles.

"Mrs. May used to come over to my house in her automobile and take me with her to a store in Falls Church, and ask me about my mother and Mr. Bowles," she said. She always told Mrs. May she didn't know anything she said.

Last week Mrs. May testified that Helen was responsible for stories about Mr. Bowles and Mrs. Mills. Under cross-examination she said that Mr. Bowles used to come to the Mills house two or three times a week.

Doctors Called to Stand.

Dr. F. M. Brooks and Dr. Ford Swetnam, both of Fairfax, were called to the stand in an effort to counteract testimony by the plaintiff's physician that Mrs. May's paralysis was caused by shock incident to Mr. Bowles' visit at their home.

Dr. Brooks said Mrs. May was suffering from "an organic paralysis" that was not brought on by shock. He contradicted testimony to the contrary by Dr. Percy Hickling, professor of mental and nervous diseases at Georgetown University. Dr. Swetnam's testimony closely paralleled that of Dr. Brooks.

Five witnesses testified to the character and good reputation of Mrs. Mills. They were Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Selin, neighbors; Walter O. Von Herbulus, of Falls Church; R. E. T. Shreve and E. H. Bly, of West Falls Church.

the revolved found near Trinity College. It was in this way that he established to his satisfaction that the revolver was used in both cases.

Gun Found After Slaying.

The gun was found by Edward Grant, a colored employe of the District Highway Department on Lincoln Road on May 21, two days after Cunningham was fatally wounded in an alley near his home on I street near Fourteenth street.

Directly after Cunningham's death police arrested Patrolman Wallace J. Middleton, of the Twelfth Precinct, who is now at liberty under $3,000 bond on a charge of housebreaking. This charge grew out of the alleged hi-jacking of liquor from an I street speakeasy, in which Cunningham and Middleton are alleged to have participated.

Justice Jennings Bailey yesterday granted a temporary padlock injunction against the second and third floors of the building at 1219 New York avenue northwest under the nuisance provision of the Volstead law. The injunction named Jack E. O'Hearne, alias Jack O'Hern, as proprietor; Lester Stanley Simmons and Thomas Henry Wise as "bartenders," and Carl F. Brodt and Marie M. Brodt as owners of the building.

HORTON IS TERMED CONSPIRACY VICTIM

Tennessee House Listens to Debate on Demand for His Impeachment.

Nashville, Tenn., June 3 (A.P.).—Demands for impeachment of Gov. Henry H. Horton and charges that the efforts to oust him from office were inspired by political motives were heard in the Tennessee House of Representatives today as debate opened on the first of eight impeachment articles against the governor.

Conspiracy with Col. Luke Lea, publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, financier, to let them control certain governmental departments in exchange for their political support and the influence of their newspapers was charged to the governor in the first article. Fifty of the 99 House votes are required to indict him.

"This article paints the picture of the rotten condition of State affairs for the last four years," said Representative John Tipton, starting off the debate with a plea that the governor be indicted and arraigned before the Senate trial.

Vehement Language Used.

"Strike down this damnable monster of prejudice and kill the damn thing dead," countered Representative W. Y. Boswell, heading the forces seeking to prevent impeachment.

Boswell said he agreed with Tipton about "a conspiracy," but added:

"That conspiracy is nothing more and nothing less than an attempt to overthrow the State government in Tennessee and seize the reins of that government by a few political and ambitious men of this State."

He said that unde rthe alleged agreement between Horton and Lea and Caldwell, the governor was to "give them practical control of two or three State departments" and mentioned the department of highways, banking and insurance and finance and taxation.

SIGNIFICANCE IS ATTACHED TO STIMSON VISIT ABROAD

prove of great importance to Europe and to this country, although the Secreary, in announcing it, emphasized its personal nature, and said he had no diplomatic mission.

Particularly important should be his conversations on disarmament. That time-worn question is still confused and its ultimate disposition uncertain. The ideas Stimson forms of he policies of European countries, and the information he may convey to them regarding this country's attitude, might be expected to have great effect.

Even if Stimson remained silent and absorbed the views of others, his silence probably would be enlightening, because it might logically be interpreted as implying disapproval of the views expressed to him—some of which are likely to be distasteful if they are frankly expressed.

There is to be a disarmament conference next February if nothing happens. It is planned to be—or was planned to be—a definitive one, that would put the world on the road to fewer warships, fewer soldiers, fewer fighting airplanes. Besides the normal difficulties that face all disarmament conferences, including the general reluctance to reduce any but the other man's fighting strength, two specific questions are in the way.

First is the German-Austrian customs union, which astonished and dismayed France and those countries associated with her in opposition to the regrowth of Germany's power. On its surface a friendly basis for exchange of goods, Germany's ancient enemies see in the customs union a plot to form another such central European bloc as enabled Germany and her smaller allies to hold out for four years in a war against almost all the world. However, when the customs union was brought up at the recent meeting of the League of Nations Council, there was unanimous agreement to refer it to the World Court for an opinion as to its legality.

It is hoped by those who want to see the disarmament conference held next February that the World Court will consider the union at great length—possibly for a year or two, certainly until after the disarmament conference has been held.

Franco-Italian Dispute Pends.

The second specific obstacle is the Italian-French argument as to the relative size of their navies. When Great Britain, Japan and the United States reached agreement at the London naval conference to limit the strength of their cruisers and other auxiliary ships (battleships had been limited at the 1921 Washington Conference), France and Italy could not reach agreement on their own strength.

Italy wants as many ships as France has; France doesn't care how many she has so long as she has more than Italy. Officials here believe that the two nations may reach some agreement before February, and that France, which now wants to postpone the disarmament conference, may change her mind.

The disarmament conference will meet, when it meets, with a draft treaty to work on. This was drawn up by a preparatory commission. It leaves blank the spaces for relative strength to be allowed. All the conference has to do is to agree on such questions as these and fill in the blanks to every one's satisfaction, on land, sea and air disarmament. Full agreement is regarded by most experts as unlikely and would be hailed as one of the great accomplishments of history.

Hughes Made Tour in 1924.

Stimson's visit to Europe will be the first of its sort undertaken by an American Secretary of State since Charles E. Hughes, now Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, went to the London meting of the International Bar Association in 1924. From London he went to Paris, Rome and Berlin. Stimson went to the London Naval Conference, but did not make the grand diplomatic tour.

Frank B. Kellogg, now a judge of the world court, visited Paris as Secretary of State early in 1928, to sign the Briand-Kellogg peace treaty. However, he went from France direct by cruiser to Ireland, returning the visit paid this country by President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State, and did not even go to London. It was reported that this was by order of President Coolidge, who did not want him to talk about cruisers. This was immediately after the failure of the Geneva naval conference.

TWO SAVE WOMAN AT NIAGARA FALLS

We didn't pay much attention because you can't watch every one walking around here.

"I happened to be looking when she jumped in. I yelled and ran and so did Leonard. She already had drifted off shore, about 100 feet above the falls.

"I knew if I went in the same place I'd miss her, so I jumped in about 50 feet below there and started wading toward her. I was too excited to think much about it, and wasn't scared—then.

"I slipped once or twice and began to swim—guess I almost went over the falls with her. It was hard work getting her out, but Leonard came up just then and helped.

"She was unconscious, just floating. So we waded with her back to shore where Swigert (Charles Swigert, 55, of Buffalo) helped us get her out.

"We planned to go home right away, but I guess now we'll stay around and see how she comes out."

Both boys went to St. Mary's Hospital immediately after learning where the woman had been taken. She refused to give any name but "Smith." She did, however, give the name of a sister, Mrs. Franklin G. Sagel, who was summoned but refused to discuss the matter.

West Virginia Fugitive Brought Down by Shot

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 3.—As the result of trying to escape from Forrest Maxwell, of Doddridge County, and a State trooper last night in a highway near West Union, Brooks Bland, 24, was in jail there today with a severe pistol bullet wound in his leg.

The officers encountered Bland while making an inspection trip. He had escaped from a gang of road prisoners three weeks ago while being held for grand jury action on a bad check charge.

ALEXANDRIA LEGION PLANS LADIES' NIGHT

Post's Past Commander to Be Presented Medals for Service.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, will give its seventh annual ladies' night entertainment in Gadsby's Tavern tomorrow night. A brief address will be delivered by Judge Robinson Moncure. Special prizes will be presented to the ladies, refreshments will be served and an entertainment program has been prepared.

At the same time past commanders of the post will be honored with presentation of medals expressive of the appreciation of the post for their services.

The post was organized in 1919, with Capt. George H. Evans as the first commander. For several years the membership was at a very low ebb, local veterans appearing to take little interest in the Legion. However, in 1926 the State convention was held in Alexandria, and a decided impetus was given to the post when preparations were being made for entertaining the convention.

The post has grown in membership each year since that time, until the last report showed 593 members, making it easily the largest post in Virginia. One of the crowning events of the post was the entertainment at a banquet on April 6, the fourteenth anniversary of the entry of the United States into the World War, of the national commander, Ralph T. O'Neill, whose address on that occasion is being referred to throughout the country as the national commander's "famous Alexandria speech."

Past commanders who will receive medals are Capt. George H. Evans, John T. Worthington, J. Randall Caton, jr., Elliott F. Hoffman, W. Cameron Roberts, F. Clinton Knight, who served two terms and also served as State commander; George F. Downham, W. Milton Glasgow, Howard L. Arnold and Sidney Well. Capt. T. M. Hamilton was at one time commander of the local post but, because of spending the winters in Florida, he has transferred his membership to a post there.

A condemnation commission, composed of John D. Normoyle and Fred C. Goodnow, of Alexandria, and Capt. Thurlow White, Herman E. Gasch and Victor Donaldson, of Fairfax County, was engaged yesterday in examining four of ten pieces of property the Government has taken over in connection with construction of Mount Vernon boulevard. The remaining six pieces of property will be examined later and reports will be made to the United States court from time to time, after which arguments will be presented and the court will definitely fix prices.

Several sentences were imposed yesterday for violations of the national prohibition act. Kyle Williams was sentenced to ten months in jail; the sentence of Frank Dennison, fixed Tuesday at three months in jail, was changed to $50 fine and he was placed on probation for eighteen months; the court refused to change the sentence of three months in jail imposed Tuesday on Robert Arnold, and these additional sentences for violation of the dry act were imposed: Richard Weadon, Wade Smith, William D. Duncan, Bernard Brooks and Allen Kidwell, three months each; Lucy Smith, fined $5; Earl Elliott, fined $1; George Elliott, three months, the sentence not to begin until the next term of court.

On motion of Attorney James Reece Duncan, the sentence of Ashbury Willis, who sold three bottles of what was supposed to be whisky to prohibition agents, two of the bottles afterward being found to contain water, was reduced from six months to three months.

The board of managers of the Alexandria Children's Home and Day Nursery, 411 Prince street, has issued a circular letter of appeal for support of that organization, which now is caring for 14 children who would otherwise be homeless or have to be sent to State institutions.

The home was started three years ago as an experiment, with the Rotary Club assuming responsibility for rental of a building and contributions solicited for the upkeep, and the need has been so great for its continuance that the small house first occupied was outgrown and public spirited citizens working for permanent establishment of a home purchased a larger building, 411 Prince street, for $7,125, a nominal price for the building secured, and contributions are now being solicited for the purchase price and also a fund for upkeep.

The committee in charge is endeavoring to secure a sufficient number of contributing members to assure an income.

Business meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, at the George Mason Hotel, when plans will be completed for entertainment next Tuesday night of the seventh grade girls of the public schools. These girls will be guests of the club at dinner at 6:30 o'clock at the hotel, with Miss Louise Rowlett, education chairman, and Mrs. Albert M. Briggs, program chairman, in charge of arrangements. Each girl will receive a gift. Club members will bring their gifts to the meting tomorrow night, ready for the committee to distrubute.

Mrs. Mary W. Troth, member at large of the State executive committee; Miss Alice Gronau, national convention pageant chairman, and Miss Margaret Germond, State vice president, will present reports of the State executive board, meeting in Richmond Saturday.

Members of the graduating classes of the Alexandria High School and the George Mason High School will be entertained at luncheon today in the George Mason Hotel by the Alexandria Kiwanis Club. R. C. Bowton, superintendent of schools, is in charge of the program, which will be equally dividend between the two schools.

Sidney B. Hall, State superintendent of education, of Richmond, has stated that the survey commission of three members, now working on a study of the Alexandria public schools, has only begun its work. Mr. Hall states he will not be able to make any report until he receives a full report from the commission, which started its work last Thursday. The report of Mr. Hall will be made to the city school board.

Mabel Lyons, colored, of South Washington, Va., is in the Alexandria Hospital suffering from severe burns received while engaged in cleaning clothes with gasoline.

NAVAL BALL HONORS CLASS AT ANNAPOLIS

441 Will Receive Diplomas Today; Jahncke to Act for Secretary Adams.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 3.—Climaxing the program of preliminary ceremonies incident to commencement day at the Naval Academy, the farewell ball in honor of graduates, at which members of the class of 1932 were hosts, was given tonight, and 441 of Uncle Sam's young naval wards eagerly await the coming of tomorrow when they will receive their diplomas from the hands of Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, acting on behalf of Secretary Charles F. Adams, who will be prevented from coming to Annapolis because of other important business. Mr. Jahncke will also address the graduates.

Several thousand persons crowded spacious Dahlgren Hall tonight for the ball, always the largest and most brilliant social function of the academic year. Profiting by the experience of last June when hundreds of persons nearly crashed the gates in an effort to gain admission, and many of the uninvited did get in, authorities of the academy took extraordinary precautions to handle the situation.

The hall was elaborately decorated with flags and streamers of bunting of various hues and electric embellishments, conspicuous among which was "Farewell 1931." Girls and guests from Washington, Baltimore and other points of the East dominated the immense throng, but there were guests from every State in the Union. Each State has a quota in all four classes of midshipmen. The guests were received by Mrs. Hart, wife of Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy, assisted by Midshipman Joseph J. Loughlin, president of the post class.

During the forenoon the regiment of midshipmen put on a physical drill under infantry arms. This took the form of a gymnastic or calisthenic exhibition, and was an interesting spectacle. Last of the drills came at 5:30 this afternoon, when the regiment was on "dress parade," in connection with which prizes for excellence in the professional branches and honors along athletic lines were presented.

The list of awards follows, all winners being members of the graduating class unless otherwise designated:

1861 HEROES CHEER TRIBUTE PAID DAVIS

Gen. Rice Pearce Eulogizes Only Confederate President on His Anniversary.

Montgomery, Ala., June 3 (A.P.).—Gray-haired soldiers, who as youths called him commander in chief, today gave a rousing cheer for Jefferson Davis, as Gen. Rice A. Pearce, of Union City, Tenn., eulogized the only President of the Confederacy in commemoration of the anniversary of his birth.

The eulogy of Davis was given during the afternoon business session of the forty-first annual reunion of the United Confederate veterans. The morning session was devoted to organization and the annual address of their commander, Gen. L. W. Stephens, of Coushatta, La.

Jefferson Davis was described as a soldier, a statesman and a patriot by Gen. Pearce.

"The principles for which the Confederacy stood are just as sacred as in 1860 and '61, and those principles still live and will ever live, so long as constitutional government survives."

Brig. Gen. George H. Armistead, editor of the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner, described the veterans as "a constructive force" after surrendering their battle flags.

"The progress of the Southern States today is due to the fortitude and perserverance of Confederae soldiers," Gen. Armistead said. "The heroic age of the South did not end at Appomattox, but has extended down through the ages."

The veterans tonight were guests of honor at a reception in Camp Stephens' Auditorium, tendered them by Sons of Confederate Veterans. Tomorrow a new staff of officers will be elected and the 1932 reunion city will be chosen.

Gen. Pearce last night issued a statement committing himself as opposed to Washington, D. C., as the 1932 convention city.

"The bonnie blue flag does not fly in Washington," Gen. Pearce said. "The people there are good people, but are they the Southern people we know? Where, but in the South, in a Southern city and directed and cared for by the hospitable people of the South who loved our cause, can a Confederate veteran feel at home?"

Richmond, Va., apparently was in the lead as the veterans' choice for next year.

Washington May Win Confederate Reunion

A strong possibility that the next Confederate Veterans' reunion will be held in Washington in 1932 was claimed yesterday at the convention now in session at Montgomery, Ala.

According to Arthur Clarendon Smith, divisional commander of the Maryland and District of Columbia Confederate Veterans, who is attending the convention, the Southern city provided a rousing welcome for the gray-clad vanguard of the army below the Mason and Dixon line, and the invitation to come to Washington which was extended by the delegation from this section, was received enthusiastically.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

THE Messrs. Harry W. Crull and Edgar Waite managing director and chief cymbal whanger of the Fox Theater, respectively, on Tuesday evening revived the ancient custom of feeding the starving members of the Fourth Estate and by a graceful gesture placed themselves unequivocally on the side of bigger and better previews.

Preceding the screening of the Fox dialogue production of Jean Webster's "Daddy Long-Legs" before the invited audience of 100-odd, a dainty collation was spread in the spacious offices formerly occupied by Mr. Arthur De Titta, of the Fox Movietone News, from which he has been summarily evicted in order that these sumptuous quarters may be taken over by Mr. Waite and the poster department—a matter for Mr. De Titta to take up with the real estate and rental department, in case he thinks he has been given a dirty deal.

But that is apart from the fact that with their hearts evidently set on a record of 100 per cent absorption and consumption, the tables were respread in the spacious lobby on the orchestra floor of the theater and after the screening the guests again were plied with coffee and sandwiches by the solicitous Messrs. Crull and Waite, in order, I take it—and I took it—to insure their continued wakefulness throughout the remainder of the early morning.

If this sort of thing is to keep up, this column will adopt as its slogan: "Every manager a Cruller or a Waiter!"

Do I hear a second?

But reverting to "Daddy Long-Legs"—or did you turn the corner?—the unreeling of the splendid dialogue and sound version of this much-loved tale demonstrates it to be one of the few screen stories that is absolutely undated. This handsomely contrived edition of the quaint story of a pitiful little waif's love for her unidentified benefactor, in which the pivotal roles are played by Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter, is as completely in the spirit of the present as if it had never been made a dozen years ago as a silent picture with Mary Pickford, Marshall Neilan, Earle Foxe and Wesley "Freckles" Barry in the cast. Twenty-five years hence it will be no less enlivening and timely than it is today. It is a story for which the clock just doesn't tick.

It is no part of the purpose of this Thursday column to review "Daddy Long-Legs" a full 24 hours in advance of its opening, but assuming that you can't wait until Saturday morning to find it out, I may say that a suspicion is forming in what I still laughingly refer to as my mind that the Fox won't come any nearer holding the crowds that will want to get in, come Friday, than the Rialto did 'way back in 1919.

And watch for that tough kid in the orphanage trundle bed for a rowdy but raucous laugh.

Hot on the heels of all this, a perspiring courier—and "I choose my words carefully, I do—has just dashed in with a story about Al Mitchell, the new master of ceremonies, who is to assume his genial duties at the Fox tomorrow, which is too long—much too long—to reproduce here. In type it would be longer, as a matter of fact, than Mr. Mitchell has been in town. The gist of it is, however, that he is a great guy—so don't be surprised if he is.

For the tenth and final week of their regular subscription season, the National Theater Players next week will present a George M. Cohan comedy that has never before been seen in Washington. In "Whispering Friends," I am given to understand, the Players feel that they will set the season's high mark in farcical hilarity. Practically the entire roster of the talented and popular company will find itself congenially cast in the only Cohan work that has been included in the summer's repertoire.

When the National Theater Players essay Eugene O'Neill's massive "Strange Interlude," week after next, June 15, Nancy Sheridan, leading woman, cast in the colossal role of Nina Leeds, will find herself confronted with the longest part ever written for an actress. It has been played by Lynn Fontanne, Pauline Lord, Elisabeth Risdon and Judith Anderson.

Next week's line of march, in case you are curious, will lead to the following new offerings in the cinemagogues: Columbia, Gloria Swanson, in "Indiscreet;" Earle, Loretta Young and Frank Albertson, in "Big Business Girl," and Bob Nelson, in "Broadway Affairs of 1931," headlining the vaudeville bill; Palace, Clara Bow, in "Kick In," and Loew's "Bag of Blues," stage revue; Metropolitan, Billie Dove, in "The Lady Who Dared;" RKO-Keith's, Mae Clarke, James Hall and Marie Prevost, in "The Good Bad Girl;" Fox, Janet Gaynor, Warner Baxter and Una Merkel, in "Daddy Long-Legs," and Fanchon & Marco's "Icy Hot" Idea, with Al Mitchell as master of ceremonies.

Between announcements of the Capital's principal sporting events, Jimmy Lake pauses long enough to say that burlesque's contribution to Ninth street Gayety next week will be Miss Billie Diamond and her own show. A Diamond in the rough, or am I looking at the wrong one?

Yes indeed, and the nights are fine for sleeping, too—so I hear!

Driver Asleep at Light Is Fined $100 as Drunk

Because he stopped his car at a "green light" on Eleventh street southeast, and then proceeded to take a nap, much to the disgust of following motorists, John Philip Jenifer, Negro, yesterday was told that he could either pay a fine of $100 or spend 60 days in jail for driving while intoxicated.

The testimony offered to Judge Ralph Given was that when police came upon the scene, they found a score of automobiles jammed together, horns honking, and water streaming from Jenifer's car. The latter, incidentally, was water logged, some spectator having tried to arouse him by pouring several buckets of water on him. Police testified they smelled liquor on his breath.

Fellow Envoy Seconds Dawes Definition of Hell

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Dawes' opinion that diplomacy is "easy on the brain but hell on the feet" caused a repercussion yesterday from another diplomatic source.

Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, a fellow guest of Dawes at the White House, has a very sore foot. He clipped the Dawes statement from a Washington paper, drew a cross bone and skull on it and tacked it on Dawes' door.

President Hoover enjoyed the explosive reply of the Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Woman Asking Divorce Claims Suicide Effort

Alleging that she was driven to an attempt at suicide by grief brought on through her husband's alleged attentions to another woman, Mrs. Margaret C. Crawford, of P street near Eleventh street northeast, yesterday named the other woman as corespondent in asking an absolute divorce from Fred A. Crawford.

Mrs. Crawford declares she attempted suicide by asphyxiation and that she afterwards was compelled to leave her husband, employed by an oil company. Through Attorney Raymond Neudecker she asks for permanent alimony. They were married September 23, 1930, in Baltimore.

*Consider your Adam's Apple!!

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Everyone has an Adam's Apple—Every man—every woman has one. Touch your Adam's Apple with your finger. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

"TOASTING" expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE—the modern cigarette. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" Process includes the use of Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret and exclusive heating process. It is this process that expels these harsh irritants. No wonder 20,679 American physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple." Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

COUNTY GOVERNING WILL BE DISCUSSED

Experts to Participate in Conferenoe at University of Virginia July 2.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 3.—A conference on county government will be held on July 2 at the University of Virginia in connection with the Institute of Public Affairs, and county officials from all sections of the State are being invited to attend.

The Virginia Commission on County Government, of which Prof. Robert H. Tucker, of Washington and Lee University, is chairman, has arranged for morning and afternoon discussions at which problems of these political subdivisions can be discussed.

Dr. Tucker will preside at the public meeting, which will open at 9:30 a. m., July 2. Other members of the commission, Prof. George W. Spicer, of the University of Virginia, vice chairman; W. E. Elmore, of Brunswick; C. O. Reed, of Chesterfield, and W. Conway Saunders, of Henrico, will be present to hear the county officials tell of their problems.

What three experts think of three different phases of county government will be heard at the opening of the afternoon round table conference at 3 o'clock. A general discussion of Virginia conditions will follow.

Prof. Thomas H. Reed, of the University of Michigan, will speak on county consolidation; Prof. Harold W. Dodd, of Princeton University, will discuss the present status of county organization, and Prof. Paul Wager, of the University of North Carolina, is to talk on county government.

This conference is planned to accomplish two purposes. It will give county officials chance to discuss their own problems with experts and it will give members of the Virginia commission an opportunity to learn more of conditions in counties throughout the State.

Myers Is Elected Head Of Big Mills Syndicate

Gastonia, N. C., June 3 (A.P.).—A. G. Myers, of Gastonia, was elected president of Textiles, Inc., recently formed $17,500,000 cotton mills syndicate, at a meeting of directors here today. J. H. Separk, also of Gastonia, was elected president of a subsidiary selling agency, the Textiles, Inc., sales company, capitalized at $500,000.

Merger of sixteen mills in this region of the Carolinas was completed a few days ago under the designation Textiles, Inc., and plans for acquiring six other mills were disclosed.

Maine-to-Florida Road Urged on Government

Norfolk, Va., June 3 (A.P.).—The Atlantic Coastal Highway Association today adopted a resolution urging the Federal Government in cooperation with cities of the Atlantic Seaboard to build a 60-foot coastal highway on a 100 foot right of way from Maine to the Florida Keys.

Delegates to the annual convention left here this afternoon to visit Elizabeth City, N. C., and Kill Devil Hill at Kitty Hawk, where the Wright brothers flew the first airplane.

Monroe Carriage Earns Retirement

Vehicle Will Be Placed in Museum After Century of Steady Service.

Williamsburg, Va., June 3 (A.P.).—The carriage of James Monroe, which has been in continual service for more than a century will be sold here Saturday, its days of service over except as a relic.

Built to the order of Monroe early in the nineteenth century, the old carriage was bought at auction for $900 by Henri Mouquin in 1870. After driving it 3 miles daily in New York for 30 years, Mr. Mouquin brought it to his Williamsburg estate a little more than 30 years ago, and since that time he has been driving it in preference to automobiles which he dislikes.

At the age of 94, Mr. Mouquin, the retired Swiss wine merchant, who was famous for his metropolitan restaurants before the days of prohibition, now has agreed to sell the old vehicle to Jay Johns, who has restored Ash Lawn, the home of Monroe at Charlottesville. The agreement was made only when Mr. Johns assured the owner that the carriage would be placed in a museum to be built near Ash Lawn, and that the vehicle would be saved for posterity.

Converting your furnace a problem?

Let JANITROL be your Furnace Man
Heats with GAS

What real advantages are offered in any other heating systems that are not to be found in Automatic Gas Heat? On the other hand, what advantages may be found in Automatic Gas Heat that other heating systems CANNOT give you? There are plenty.

First—Automatic Gas Heat is the only completely automatic type of heating in use today.

Second—It eliminates the fuel bin, dirt and soot. (And if you'll remember last winter, you'll agree this is a big item).

Third—Depreciation costs are less with a Janitrol Gas Conversion Burner than for automatic heating plants burning any other fuel. There is no complicated machinery.

Fourth—Any necessary servicing or adjusting will be done free of charge by your Gas Company.

These are a few of the many advantages of gas heat with a Janitrol. But the prime advantage of a Janitrol Gas Conversion Burner is that it COSTS MUCH LESS TO INSTALL (only $200 complete) than any other type of automatic heating. So when the question of cost is raised—investigate. Get an estimate.

Ten per cent down and the balance in easy payments on your gas bills will put a Janitrol Gas Conversion Burner in your home. And if you place your order now, for immediate installation, the first monthly payment is deferred 'til next September.

Considering the facts, would it be fair to yourself to face next winter with another coal shovel? Now is the time to convert your present furnace. And if you are thinking of converting it, by all means do it with a Janitrol Gas Conversion Burner. Estimates are made without obligation—installation in a single day.

PINCHOT'S POLITICS.

Gov. Pinchot's speech at the conference of governors at French Lick Springs is obviously another forlorn effort to attract the presidential lightning. Mr. Pinchot wants to be President of the United States, and although he has not convinced anybody else that he ought to be President, he clings to the hope that he can find an "issue," somewhere, sometime, that will lead to the White House.

The plan adopted by Gov. Pinchot in advocating national control of the "power trust" is to exaggerate to an absurd degree the political influence of the trust, and to shout that "unless the Government controls the trust it will control the Government." The same thing might be said of any other commercial combination. Once it was Standard Oil that was to enslave the people; again it was the railroads; now it is the power trust.

No doubt the utility interests are making combinations and effecting consolidations, as other interests are doing. The railroads are commanded to consolidate. But when it is asserted that this movement threatens the liberties of the American people the alarmist who makes the assertion merely subjects himself to ridicule.

Gov. Pinchot suggests nothing new when he calls for Federal control of interstate power. President Hoover has twice pointedly asked Congress to push forward such legislation. Instead of formulating regulatory legislation the Senate coalition saw fit to play politics with the Federal Power Commission in the hope of proving that President Hoover is a "tool of the trust."

Federal regulation of power is a certainty of the future. No tortured cries or hyperboles from Gov. Pinchot are needed in order to arouse the American people to the necessity of regulating these corporations. The power trust can not make such inroads into the independence of the United States as to be impregnable and omnipotent. If any gentlemen are so fatuous as to try to form a national trust so powerful as to defy the Government they are merely storing up disaster for themselves. The higher they climb the harder they will fall.

The most offensive feature of demagogy is its insulting insinuation that men in high places are corrupt or cowardly. The Pinchot speech carries the implication that he is the only man in the United States who is both honest and courageous enough to lead the fight for control of public utilities. He besmirches officials of his own State and permits his hearers to conclude that Congress and the administration are supine, if not actually under the influence of the "power trust."

The country has heard such stuff ad nauseam from Senator Norris. Why does Gov. Pinchot try to outdo the mudslinger of Nebraska? Is a mudslinging combination forming? Is there to be a mudslingers' trust? Then it should be subjected to Federal control, along with the power trust, the railroads, and all other combinations.

Gov. Pinchot's record during the recent session of the Pennsylvania Legislature is not such as to establish public confidence in his sincere devotion to the public good. His duty required him to look after the interests of Pennsylvania, but he neglected this duty while using the office of governor to play presidential politics. The State of Pennsylvania is denied needed legislation because of the failure of its governor to perform his official duties. It is not of such stuff that Presidents are made.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

The status of the Nation's finances is clarified by the statement issued from the White House. It is estimated that the deficit at the end of the fiscal year will amount to more than $900,000,000, but this does not mean that the national debt will be increased by that amount. In accordance with legal requirements about $440,000,000 was paid on the debt during the year. This means that the national debt will be increased about $500,000,000, or slightly more than 3 per cent.

In view of the abnormal expenditures and the falling revenue with which President Hoover's administration has been confronted this is a remarkably good showing. The outlay for construction to relieve unemployment, agricultural relief and veterans' bonus, hospitalization, &c., amounted to $540,000,000. Most of this is an extraordinary obligation upon the Government. At the same time revenue will show a shrinkage amounting to more than $900,000,000 below last year. Most of this represents smaller receipts from the income tax and customs revenue, but a falling off in postal receipts accounts for $50,000,000.

In these circumstances the Government is fortunate to escape with a $500,000,000 addition to the public debt. In reality the public debt is not as large as it was when the depression began. Last year, in addition to the statutory requirements, the Government applied to the debt $305,000,000, which might have been reserved to offset declining revenue during this season of hard times. Considering the two years together, the Government is less than $200,000,000 behind on statutory payments.

During the last eleven years $3,476,729,405 has been paid on the debt from budgetary surpluses. This is in addition to the billions that were paid from the sinking fund, from franchise tax and estate tax receipts, from reductions in the general fund balance, and as a result of payments to the United States by foreign governments. This year's addition to the debt will wipe out only about one-seventh of that vast surplus which has been poured into the debt retirement fund. The administration is still nearly $3,000,000,000 ahead of the debt retirement program which Congress enacted into law.

The saving in interest resulting from the application of these surplus funds to the national debt amounts to nearly $140,000,000 per year. In other words, the interest savings during the last four years from surplus funds would about equal the addition to the debt this year. Viewed in this light there is nothing startling about this increase in the national debt. When the pendulum swings toward prosperity a surplus amounting to billions is piled up. When the pendulum swings in the opposite direction a relatively small porton of the surplus must be taken away.

BEAUTIFUL WASHINGTON.

Washington will rejoice in the passing of the eyesores which line the south side of Pennsylvania avenue between the Capitol and the Treasury. Demolition of these decrepit buildings marks one of the most important steps toward the beautification of the Capital City that the Government has ever taken. Washington will seem like a different city when these neglected shops and hostelries have been replaced by magnificent buildings and parks.

The work of demolition is to be hastened to give the city a more presentable appearance for the George Washington Bicentennial celebration next year. The Treasury plans to make a clean sweep of all the old commercial structures in the Federal triangle between Pennsylvania avenue, the Mall and Fifteenth street. Even that section between Third and Sixth streets, which is to be converted into a park, will be cleared. The city which was founded by Washington will be in the midst of what might be termed an esthetic renaissance when it celebrates the 200th anniversary of his birth.

Aside from the improvements that will be made within the Triangle itself, the most significant changes will appear in the vistas of Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues. Pennsylvania avenue will no doubt continue to be the Capital's most important street. Instead of being an eyesore it will be lined with modern structures. Since the Public Buildings Commission has been given authority to regulate improvements on the north side of the Avenue, that section may be expected to assume an appearance of dignity and beauty in the future.

Constitution avenue, the former B street, is destined to become the Nation's ceremonial street. Work of widening the avenue in the vicinity of the new Commerce Building has already begun. It is to be connected with Pennsylvania avenue by a charming park, and will be one of the most imposing avenues in the world.

The whole Nation will delight in seeing this work definitely under way. It is the special privilege of Washingtonians to watch the steady and certain development of their city into the world's most beautiful Capital.

JUSTICE IN CHINA.

Negotiations between China and the United States, Great Britain and France over the modification or gradual relinquishment of extraterritoriality rights were suddenly terminated early last month when the Nanking government summarily announced the abrogation of this privilege of foreign courts to try foreigners, and gave notice that consular courts would cease functioning at the end of this year. Germany's treaty does not contain extraterritoriality rights, and a German citizen has recently had an experience with Chinese justice that is not reassuring.

A member of the German Legation staff while driving his automobile saw a Chinese cart in trouble on an adjoining street and stopped his car. The runaway resulted in a crash in which a woman was killed. The accident was in no way connected with the automobile, but when the police arrived the German was arrested upon complaint that his auto horn had been responsible for the trouble. The police supported this theory, though they had not witnessed the accident, and the testimony of the German and his four friends with him in the automobile, two of them Chinese, was completely ignored. The German has been ruined by the fines assessed against him and will be obliged to leave his post. Such is the report given in impartial foreign news accounts.

Differing viewpoints with regard to elementary justice and fair trial was responsible for the establishment of foreign courts in China. It was such considerations that prompted the international commission on extraterritoriality in 1926 to recommend that foreign courts be maintained until such time as Chinese courts had been segregated from the executive and military branches of the government, and until Chinese laws had been codified, courts reformed and modern prisons provided.

In August, 1929, the American Government signified its willingness to participate in negotiations for the gradual relinquishment of extraterritorial rights, either as to designated areas or particular kinds of jurisdiction, provided that at the same time "steps are taken by the Chinese government in the enactment and effective enforcement of laws based on modern concepts of jurisprudence."

China's unilateral action abolishing extraterritoriality on January 1 next abruptly stopped all negotiations for gradual modification, and as this action was afterward indorsed by the national convention the decision will probably stand. There is a wide difference in standards of jurisprudence between the East and the West, and China's action doubtless will lead to serious disputes. Japan has been getting along in China without treaties since 1928, doubtless because of a good mutual understanding, but in the case of Europeans and Americans it will require no little tact, as well as reasonableness on the part of Chinese officials, to avoid grave controversies.

These hats which are being tossed into the presidential ring will be pretty well booted about before convention time comes around.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 3.—The subscription several times over of the Government loan of $800,000,000 indicates a very large amount of idle capital in the country. That is a good foundation, but not enough. Money is beneficial mostly in proportion to its profitable use. Evidently capital is very timid. Faith and courage are also needed.

Two years ago the rate of interest on short-time Treasury notes was 5⅛. Now for a long-term bond the rate is 3⅛. Many who were inclined to scoff at 9 per cent now bid against each other for 3 per cent and safety. If they err in judgment it is on the side of caution. While that frame of mind exists there is little danger of inflation, but only a negative sign of reviving trade.

No doubt the Government should borrow as cheaply as possible. But if fair wages and prices are to be maintained a fair price for money should be paid. The savings of the people in banks and insurance companies can not make an adequate return with interest rates too low. Fair earnings for savings are an important factor in the purchasing power of the people.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE SILVER FATUITY

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The politicians who are making themselves zealots for silver are chasing a fatuity.

There is no place in the markets of the United States for the accumulated silver treasure of China. The purchasing power of China in our markets is measured by gold unit credits built up in New York and London by the sale of tea, silk and other exportables. The value of these exportables in the outland market is not affected by the price of silver in Shanghai.

Whatever may be the cause of the depression of trade in China, it is not because there is too little silver there. There is, in fact, a plethora of silver in China. To ship silver from Canada, Colorado or Mexico to China would be worse than carrying coals to Newcastle. And this goes also for a silver loan from the Government of the United States, to supply which our Government is asked to pay 100 cents per ounce for 30 cent silver. This is the real innards of the proposal for a silver loan to China.

The market made for silver by the age-old hoarding habit of the natives of China has been broken. It will never return. The market made by the abrasion and sweating of coins is about gone, too.

The coinage of silver by the mint of China does not make the value of silver coins per ounce greater than the gold price of bar silver per ounce, because silver circulates in China upon a weight and not upon a coin basis. Whenever one speaks of the price of silver in cents per ounce, he speaks in terms of the gold standard.

The Government of the United States can not consistently object to the establishment of the gold standard of valuation and accounting in China. And for our Government to request that the holders of the silver hoardings of India and China keep them off the market in order that the price may be improved for North American silver would be pure impudence.

The agitation for an international silver commission provides publicity for impotent politicians who say something about everything, but who do not understand anything. The only purpose to be served by appointment of the commission would be to put a quietus upon the agitation for its appointment. It would, of course, provide junkets for official junketeers. There are a lot of college professors who would be available for such a junket, and who would at such a conference be "in what to them is the happiest of all earthly states: namely, the formation of committees on the subject, and the hearing of numerous general reports together with an enormous amount of diffuse and futile discussion."

The Oriental market for silver will attain equilibrium by time and trade. It can not be stabilized by conferees who neither buy nor sell silver. The Government of the United States is not engaged in the purchase of silver for export. SAMUEL RUSSELL.

Active Again.

POST HASTE.

A change of political glasses transforms Canada's tariff boost from the flattery of imitation to spiteful reprisal.

It remained for resourceful Senator Ham Lewis to think up the original idea for meeting Chicago's financial dilemma—borrow from Uncle Sam.

If Mussolini and Cardinal Gasparri are big enough to thrash things out face to face the row will be settled.

Mr. Ford and some others crossed the border in time to be walled in behind Canada's new tariff barriers.

The tax muddle in Chicago has resulted in a temporary default in payments on Cook County bonds. The situation affords another illustration of inherent confidence in the U. S. A. Everybody knows that Chicago will pay up just as we know the depression will pass.

Are the 10,000 applicants for dry agent jobs duly warned that they may be obliged to sample captured goods?

If you read Gov. Ritchie's attack on prohibition and Gov. Pinchot's venerable assault on the power trust you will agree they both picked dry subjects.

Bishop Cannon having done considerable harm to the church and no good to politics, Bishop McConnell will lead militant churchmen against armaments, with similar results.

JUST FOLKS

THE BUTTERFLY.

The other day before my eyes
There passed a group of butterflies.

And as from flower to flower they flew,
Bent on the task they came to do.

Bearing the fertile pollen far
I thought how strange God's marvels are.

Fragile and lovely to the eye
Behold the wondrous butterfly.

Gay liveried servant of the flowers
Surpassing any work of ours.

Never I'm sure from brain of man
Could come so delicate a plan.

Only from God's design could spring
So helpful and so fair a thing.

But Why Give Part of Your Little to Beggars Who Own Apartment Houses?

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

You may not be interested in statecraft or international banking, but you are interested in taxes.

When statesmen renew their propaganda for the "adjustment of war debts," they are planning a raid on your pocketbook.

And the only way you can protect yourself is by learning the truth and refusing to be victimized by pretense and hypocrisy.

Do you know how the war debts affect your pocketbook?

During the great war, Europe needed billions of dollars with which to buy supplies.

Her statesmen appealed to the American Government.

But the American Government had no such sum to lend. The only way to get the money was to borrow it from the American people.

This the Government did, giving the people bonds as a pledge of repayment.

Now the Government faces the task of redeeming these bonds and returning the people's money.

How can it be done?

There are but two ways: The money must be got from the European nations to which it was loaned, or the American Government must tax its own people to get the money with which to repay them.

If Europe doesn't pay, you must.

That is the whole story.

You are told that the debt should be canceled—that is, taken out of your pocket instead of the European taxpayer's—because Europe is unable to pay.

You are told that debt payments to America impoverish the English taxpayer and burden France—poor, unselfish France—beyond endurance.

There is not a word of truth in it.

The English taxpayer is not affected in the slightest degree by debt payments to America. Every cent England pays to America is collected from other nations.

And the money France pays each year is less than the sum American tourists spend in France.

France is the richest nation in the world, with twice the gold per capita that America has.

Why should the American tax himself to pay himself—why should pity make him so simple—when the money England pays is not provided by the English taxpayer and the money France pays is provided by the American tourist?

Why give alms to a man richer than you are?

Bonus Blunder.

New York Herald Tribune.

Those gentlemen in Congress who fell over themselves to pass the Bacharach measure, permitting war veterans to borrow up to 50 per cent of the adjusted compensation due them in 1945 should be rubbing their eyes. The burden they wished on the Treasury has now passed the billion-dollar mark and promises to amount to half as much again. The comforting estimates with which they tried to wheedle the public into justifying their generosity have been doubled and trebled in the event and may be quadrupled. Even the President's prediction of the size of the drain—in his veto message—is being exceeded.

At the same time that other argument of our wise lawmakers that all this money put into circulation would promote the recovery of business seems to have gone by the board.

Yet one hears that the agitation for a cash settlement of the bonus at the next session of Congress is still gathering force. Is there no lesson whatever that will stay the hand of the politician when he sees a chance to buy votes with the people's money?

Passing the Tax Buck.

Boston Transcript.

There is complaining in Great Britain and America that a majority of the voters, the men who carry the elections but never handle a tax-bill, blissfully assume that they pay no taxes themselves and are all the more ready to demand political sops—doles, old-age pensions and the like, the money for which seems to them to be wrung from private and corporate wealth or drawn from the inexhaustible pocket of a paternal government that has only to print money when it needs it. They should be made to realize that every man jack of them pays an increased tax himself the minute a raid on the public money-chest is successfully accomplished.

A correspondent of the New York Times suggests a campaign of education, beginning, for example, with enlightening the tenant as to what the landlord does with the money he collects for rent. The landlord might itemize his monthly rent bill: interest on investment so much, taxes so much, depreciation and up-keep so much. Thus, on a property valued at $5000, and renting for $50 a month, he would indicate on his bills that this sum included $25 a month interest on his own money or borrowed capital, $18 a month for taxes and water service, and $7 a month for depreciation and repairs.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Ex-Soak Intrigued by Wet and Dry Statistics—He Could Furnish Some of His Own.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is interesting to note how the drys and wets handle statistics. For instance, a dry correspondent says the wets' estimated $3,000,000,000 booze bill is excessive because it would call for an expenditure of about $3 a dry per capita for a mythical 2,000,000 boozers.

Then, one of your latest wet correspondents, while not permitting us to lose sight of the fact that $3,000,000,000 "is a prodigious sum of money," eases us along with the remark, "but if it be apportioned among 120,000,000 people, it will be found to amount to about 7 cents per person per day."

No wonder the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment is on the job if they mean by this that the population of the United States, including boys and girls and babies, as well as all our former congenital teetotalers, are each consuming 7 cents' worth of booze daily.

By parity of figuring, it may be shown that the governmental deficit which is now worrying high official economists is negligible, since, properly apportioned, it amounts to only about 2½ cents per person per day.

I am a wet—a law-abiding wet. In the days of legalized booze I was on familiar terms with the gin fizz, the rum punch, the hot scotch, the tom and jerry and the eggnog, each in its own proper season. And if all the beers I have consumed were set one on top of the other they would reach a good deal higher than Al Smith's Empire State Building. So you see that, being familiar with the subject, I get quite a kick out of this wet and dry battle of aggregates and averages. EX-SOAK.

Holds Opponents to Tariff Responsible for Beginning Economic Depression.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial entitled "Two Great Reformers," in The Sunday Post, was timely, and told the truth about men like Pinchot and Grundy. Keep the good work up! You could also write one entitled "Where the Voters Send Their Feeble-Minded." Where? To Congress, of course; but they call them Progressive Republicans and Democrats. If you want to know what caused the start of the depression in 1929, it was the progressive members, allied with dumb low-tariff Democrats, fighting the protective tariff bill, which started the business uncertainty and gathered such momentum that it could not be stopped. Instead of the progressives working with President Hoover (who, by the way, is more progressive, in a safe and sane way), they did all they could to bring about unemployment and distress to the workers and farmers of the Nation.

The progressives (?) claim to be our friends (farmers and labor). Well! They are the worst enemies we have. Heaven help the Nation if the voters do not send a majority of sane regular Republicans to Congress in 1932. AMERICAN VOTER.

Gross Mismanagement of Traffic at Arlington Memorial Exercises.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I trust that out-of-town visitors to the exercises at the Amphitheater at Arlington on Memorial Day will not judge, from the many seats there, that the people of Washington are lacking in patriotic interest. The exercises were beautiful and inspiring; the respectful and universal deference to the colors, as they were brought in by the various patriotic organizations was gratifying and, even touching; the music, singing and addresses were appropriate and edifying, but, alas, the arrangements for approaching the Amphitheater from the entrance gates were highly inefficient.

It was not very encouraging to those who had given their services to see a vast area of empty seats and a majority of the boxes unoccupied, but it may soften their disappointment to know that, in all probability, many of those who would have greatly swelled the audience, eager to take part in the exercises, were aimlessly driving about in the grounds, vainly trying to find their way to the Amphitheater, misdirected by a set of ignorant, ill instructed men in khaki who, regardless of their destination, peremptorily waved drivers to roads they did not want and, when questioned, showed an utter ignorance or indifference. CAPTAIN.

Last-Ditch Fan Roasts Quitters Who Leave Before Last Man Is Out.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a steady patron of the National Baseball Club I crave permission to lecture those thoughtless cash customers who begin to leave a game in the ninth inning, if not sooner.

Even if the game is close, they will often head for the exits in large numbers, and if one of the clubs has a big lead at the beginning of the ninth, they at once start their unsportsmanlike hegira in droves.

In so doing they jostle and obstruct the view of last-ditch fans, which I can't help considering a breach of good manners.

In addition to this, their haste to get away indicates a lamentable lack of appreciation of the game. The real fan is never so foolish as to consider a game ended until the last man is out.

To the real fan the occasional ninth-inning rally in which a club which seems hopelessly behind finally wins, possibly in extra innings, is well worth waiting for. In fact, it provides what may be called the height of baseball excitement.

If the cash customers who cause my irritation would only cultivate the habit of keeping seated till the game is over, they themselves might some day become real, and not bogus, fans. BOX SEAT.

British Envoy Honors King With Dinner

Notable Company at Stagg Function on George V's Birthday.

IN celebration of the sixty-sixth birthday of King George V, the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, following a long established custom, was host at dinner last evening at a stag dinner at the embassy. While King George, accompanied by Queen Mary, attended the Derby run at Epsom Downs, in celebration of his anniversary, British diplomats gathered at the embassy here to drink to his health.

The ladies of the embassy staff dined "en famille," although in years past they have gathered at one house or another for a "petticoat" celebration of the event.

Sir John Joyce Broderick, accompanied by Lady Broderick and their daughter, Miss Sheila Broderick, arrived in town yesterday, having come on from New York a few days earlier than he had planned, to be here for the fete. Sir John, now British Minister to Cuba, and former commercial counselor of the embassy here, will spend about ten days in Washington before going to Havana to assume his new duties.

Unfortunately his successor here, Mr. H. O. Chalkley, C. M. G., missed the affair, which would have been a timely celebration of his recent elevation. He has just been made a C. M. G. by the king, who, following the established custom, conferred birthday "honors" on a large group Tuesday night. Mr. Chalkley and his wife and children are now on the high seas, bound for this country, and are due in New York tomorrow or Saturday.

Because of the celebration last evening, Sir Ronald Lindsay was forced to receive the degree of doctor of laws, which has just been conferred on him by Columbia University, ahead of time. He was awarded the honor on Monday night in New York, while the others who received degrees were awarded their honors Tuesday at the Columbia commencement exercises.

The guests last night included the Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson; the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral William V. Pratt; the Chief of Staff, U. S. A., Gen. Douglas MacArthur; Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman; the Undersecretary of State, Mr. William R. Castle, jr.; Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol; Maj. Gen. William D. Connor; Mr. Pierre Boal, of the State Department; the Minister of the Irish Free State, Mr. Michael MacWhite; the Charge d'Affaires of Canada, Mr. Hume Wrong; Mr. D. M. Dow, official secretary for Australia; Mr. Scallan, secretary of the South African Legation; Mr. Merchant Mahoney, first secretary of the Canadian Legation; Mr. Thomas A. Stone, second secretary, and Mr. Keith Crowther, second secretary, and Mr. Colman O'Donovan, secretary of the Irish Free State Legation.

Others were the members of the embassy staff, including Mr. Campbell, Col. Day, Commander Fiennes, Mr. Shone, Mr. Pack, Mr. Torr, Capt. Godfrey, Mr. Dew, Mr. Makins, Mr. McCormick-Goodhart, Mr. Sims, Mr. Mark Watson; also Mr. D. R. Ranken, Mr. M. Oram, Capt. H. R. Brett and Mr. N. D. Wilmott.

Mr. Dawes to Depart for Chicago Today.

The Ambassador to Great Britain, Mr. Charles Gates Dawes, who has been a guest of President and Mrs. Hoover, will leave the White House today for Chicago, where he will be for a short time on business incident to the Century of Progress Exposition.

The Ambassador to Poland and Mme. Filipowicz entertained at dinner last night at the embassy when their guests were the Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Hamlin, Judge John Barton Payne, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. Rose Gouveneur Hess, Mr. Victor Podowski, first secretary of the embassy, and Mr. Wladyslaw Sokolowski, counselor of embassy.

Senator Hendrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, will sail today for Europe.

The Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy, Mr. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, will join Mrs. McCormick-Goodhart in Bar Harbor June 15. She left Washington the first of the week and is now established at Reverie Cove.

Capital Folk Take Part in London Whirl

Misses Howry Entertain. Many Guests of Mrs. Lawson-Johnston.

Two festivities in London last week by hostesses who spend a part of their time in Washington bring interest to Capital society. Mrs. J. O. Lawson-Johnston, whose house at Kentsdale, Md., has been the scene of many an interesting dinner until her definite removal to London last winter, entertained with Mr. Lawson-Johnston, at her first large dinner at her house, 7 Park lane. Among the guests who accepted invitations were the oldest and most aristocratic of English nobility, the Ambassador to Great Britain and Mrs. Dawes, and others, the names including those of renowned hosts and hostesses in London society.

After closing her house in Maryland less than a year ago, Mrs. Lawson-Johnston went to Havana, where she visited her daughter, Mrs. George Grant Mason, 3d, the former Miss Jane Kendall, who, with Mr. Mason, expects to visit in London within a short time.

Also entertaining a fortnight ago were Miss Elizabeth Howry (recently presented at the Court of St. James), and her sister, Miss Mary Howry, whose guests were Washingtonians and a group of London friends. Among them were the Viscountess Elibank, Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke, Mrs. Clarence C. Dill, Mrs. Andrew Long, Mrs Murray, Lady Baird and her guest for the season, Mrs. Millar, sister of Miss Elizabeth Millar, of Washington and Luray; Mrs. Benjamin Thaw and Mrs. Ormon Lawson-Johnston, whom Washington still claims.

They were the guests of Col. John R. Thomas, jr., military attache, and Mrs. Thomas, at their home on Gerald road, when Miss Virginia Dawes, debutante daughter of the Ambassador; Miss Gywn, of Washington, and Miss Louise Brooks, granddaughter of Mrs. Stotesbury, were present, the latter two with their chaperone, Mrs. James Huntington Turner. The Misses Howry will remain in London some time, having taken a house for the season.

Misss Claire O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. O'Donnell, will receive a degree of bachelor of arts at the comencement exercises of Georgian Court College, to be held at the college casino, Saturday, in Lakewood, N. J.

The Right. Rev. John J. McMahon, Bishop of Trenton, will preside at the exercises and confer the degrees. The college is conducted by the Sisters of Mercy of the Trenton Diocese, and occupies the former Gould estate of approximately 300 acres.

Mr. Edgar Hamilton Funk, accompanied by his niece, Miss Margaret D. Reamy, and a party of friends, will go to Annapolis today to attend the graduation exercises at the United States Naval Academy.

Miss Powell Engaged to Son Of Nobleman

Noted Traveler to Become Bride of Hon John Rosebery Monson.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. E. Alexander Powell, of Journey's End, Chevy Chase, Md., announced last night at a dinner the engagemnet of their daughter, Miss Bettie Northrup Powell, to the Hon. John Rosebery Monson, only son of Lord and Lady Monson, of Burton Hall, Lincoln, England. Mr. Monson, who arrived in the United States last week, is a guest of Col. and Mrs Powell, who gave a dance following the dinner at Journey's End. Dancing was in the blue garden in the patio. Among the guests was Miss Margaret Nuckols, of Albany, N. Y.

Miss Powell was educated at St. Agnes' School, Albany, and at the Ecoles des Sciences Politiques in Paris, since which time she has accompanied her father on his journeys to remote parts of the world. She is a member of the Junior League of Washington.

Miss Powell is descended from two of the oldest and most prominent families in central New York. Her great-grandfather, the late William Brown Smith, was one of the early settlers of Onondaga County, where he founded the Lakeside Farms, long internationally famous for their show horses and Holstein catle. Her grandfather, the late Edward A. Powell, banker, agricultural authority and philanthropist, was given the degree of doctor of humane letters by Syracuse University in recognition of his public services. On her mother's side Miss Powell is a direct descendant of Cotton Mather, of colonial fame. Her maternal grandfather, the late Milton H. Northrup, was postmaster of Syracuse during the Cleveland administrations and for many years publisher and editor of the Syracuse Courier.

Mr. Monson was educated at Eton and at Christ Church College, Oxford, and has recently completed his studies for the bar at the Inner Temple. By adopting a political career he will follow the example of his godfather, the late Earl of Rosebery, Prime Minister of England.

His father, the ninth Baron Monson, was comptroller of the household of the late Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and during the great war was commissioner of the British Red Cross in Italy. Baroness Monson is an American by birth, a daughter of the late Gen. Roy Stone, of Mendham, N. J. Her first husband was the late Laurence Turnure, of New York. She is a a lady of grace of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. Mr. Monson's grandmother, the Dowager Lady Monson, was lady-in-waiting to the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, and accompanied Princess Marie to Bucharest on the occasion of her marriage to Crown Prince Ferdinand, later King of Roumania.

With the engagement of Miss Powell and Mr. Monson one more link is formed in the bond which unites Washington girls to the nobility of old England. The young people met in the summer of 1929 while traveling in the Yukon and again last summer in the Balkans. After their marriage in the fall they will make their home in London during the season and on the family estates in Lincolnshire.

Few young women have enjoyed the advantages of travel in little known corners of the world as has the gifted daughter of Col. and Mrs. Powell who, for years, have traveled up and down the wide world, the former in search of material for his widely known lectures and books. On the fingers of one hand probably might be named the countries on the globe yet unvisited by the Powells and on most of their journeys their daughter has accompanied them.

Miss Powell has herself achieved distinction as lecturer in the field of international politics which has interested her for several years. A globe trotter like her father so much of her life has been spent abroad that no time was given to the frivolity of a debut. Although in Washington most of the winter and spring Miss Powell expects to tour with her mother through the summer, the two planning to motor through New England and other points.

Mme. Hellmann, wife of the French Consul General in San Francisco, is spending a short time in Washington, where she is staying at Wardman Park Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Conover, of Kansas City, have been guests at the Mayflower for several days. Their daughter, Miss Catherine Conover, graduated yesterday from Miss Madeira's School and will return to Missouri with her parents.

White House Party Honors Press Women

Mrs. Hoover Entertains 75 Writers at First Lawn Fete.

Rating the first garden party of the year given at the White House the Women's National Press Club members were received yesterday at 5 o'clock by Mrs. Hoover, who greeted about 75 newspaperwomen on the south lawns, where informality reigned and anecdotes as told by Mrs. Hoover lent an added air of hospitality. For nearly an hour Mrs. Hoover, looking lovely in dark blue chiffon with lace and a beige hat of lace and straw, chatted with the guests. They were presented by one of the aids.

Miss Janet Large, niece of Mrs. Hoover, who was graduated from Highland Hall in Pennsylvania a few days ago, was one of the guests, adding a delightful dash of color with her smart scarlet frock. Miss Mildred Hall and Mrs. Gertrude Bowman also were among the groups, and White House aids buzzed here and there and the Marine Band in their scarlet coats played during the delightful hour.

And over near the rose gardens were the dogs, Glen, Mark and Pat, aristocrats of dogdom, pampered pets of the Mansion and willing to make friends at the slightest twist of a finger. A little lonesome, perhaps, for Tar Baby, the little "scotty" that everybody spoiled, was not there.

Kellogg's RICE KRISPIES

COUNTLESS children are now disappointed if their cereal doesn't pop and snap in milk or cream. And that's why many mothers always get genuine Kellogg's Rice Krispies — the cereal that actually crackles.

Nourishing, toasted rice grains. That's Rice Krispies. Crunchy crisp. Crammed with the flavor of rich, fluffy rice.

Serve for breakfast. Add fruits or honey for lunch. Great for nursery suppers — or to accompany the afternoon glass of milk. Just the treat for a late bedtime snack. Healthful and easy to digest.

Use Rice Krispies in cookery too. Make crisp macaroons, candies. Butter and serve like pop corn. Use for ice-cream sundaes.

Order the red-and-green package from your grocer. Served by hotels. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

A COLOR organ, operating on radioelectrical principles, which automatically converts music into changing colors that synchronize with the moods of the music has been developed by the RCA Victor Co.

The object of the color organ, according to E. B. Patterson, research engineer, who explained its operation to members of the Institute of Radio Engineers meeting in Chicago, is to produce a greater emotional effect on the spectator listener than can be obtained by listening to music alone. The color organ endeavors to correlate color and music to make a simultaneous appeal to both senses, of sight and sound, for greater esthetic enjoyment.

The new instrument, the first of its kind to operate automatically and in synchronization with radio or recorded music, or a microphone, was made commercially possible by the use of thyratron tubes.

Visualizing its applications to the concert stage, Mr. Patterson described a performance of the color organ with an orchestra. A microphone placed close to the solo instrument might be made to produce a single colored light of a given shade, while a second microphone brought different colors into play from the other instruments in the orchestra. The first light weaving a color pattern in rhythm with the solo part as the other colors formed the background in synchronization with the rest of the orchestra.

THE microphone will journey to Rum Row for the first time in radio history next Tuesday night, when a party of broadcasts will go aboard a sea-going tug and describe for the loud speakers of the Nation just what goes on beyond the 12-mile limit.

Graduation exercises at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, will be broadcast this morning (WMAL, 10:45 a. m.). The broadcast will include a brief biographical sketch of each member of the graduating class and a description of the ceremony by Stanley Bell. The principal address will be made by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams.

Proceedings at the Mahatma Gandhi testimonial dinner under auspices of the Indian National Congress of America will be broadcast tonight (WJZ network, 9 p. m.).

John Hays Hammond, internationally known mining engineer, will make an address tonight at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Boys Club Federation of America, which will be broadcast (WJZ network, 9:45 p. m.).

The German biographer, Emil Ludwig, will speak briefly this morning (WMAL, 10 a. m.).

UNCLE ABE and David will go to the RKO lot shortly to make a talking picture. Away from the microphone they are Philip Lord (Seth Parker) and Arthur Allen.

It has been reported that negotiations are under way for renewal of the Uncle Abe and David broadcasts in the not too distant future.

Closing scenes in the British open golf crown championship fight will be described tomorrow afternoon (WMAL, 12:35 p. m.).

The Danish Minister to the United States, Otto Wadsted, will address the Nation on the occasion of the celebration of the promulgation of Denmark's constitution by King Frederick VII in 1849, tomorrow night (WABC network, but not WMAL, 10 p. m.).

The shut-ins series will be inaugurated by Capt. Taylor Branson and the United States Marine Band tomorrow morning (WJZ, 10 a. m.).

A TWO-ACT comedy by Claire Kummer, "A Successful Calamity" is the Radio Guild offering tomorrow (WRC, 3:15 p. m.).

The Oregon Rhythm Boys, vocal trio, members of the University of Oregon Glee Club, will help the RKO Theater of the Air observe the Portland Rose Festival, Mardi Gras of the Northwest, tomorrow night (WRC, 9:30 p. m.).

Eighteen members of the NBC announcerial staff will present a burlesque skit called "The Vanishing American" tomorrow (WJZ network, 7:45 p. m.).

RECENTLY Kate Smith lost a gold medal which she won a year ago in a radio popularity contest. Although the intrinsic value of the medal is only about $30, she has offered many times that as a reward for its safe return to her. It has been Kate's favorite good-luck piece ever since she has had it.

Jay Interprets the MODE

Summer evening frock of palest beige organdie, with elaborate linen lace as its interesting decoration. (A Dah-ray design.)

New York, June 3.

O-O-OH, lets go—anywhere at all as long as it's away. But lets be different this year, and go away with just the right amount of lugagge, and the right kind of clothes in the luggage to be comfortable.

The finest of trips can be spoiled, completely and hopelessly, by too many bags and trunks and hatboxes, as well as by too few clothes when these bags and trunks and hatboxes are opened! It's a fine art, my dears, this of traveling with just the right amount of everything—and one that when mastered pays the highly desirable dividends of a calm mind and an always attractive person. Naturally, the best way to go about this intricate and delightful study is to know exactly the conditions at the place you are going—that is, if it's one where riding will be the chief pursuit, or golf, or swimming, or tennis. In this way, you'll know what specialties in the sports line must be included, and you won't be like a funny little friend of Mamzelle who went away to a mountain lake resort with just dozens of bathing suits and beach pajamas and things, only to find the lake one of those to be looked at only—from the hotel which perched up on hundreds of feet of granite cliff! Had she known that those who wanted to bathe had to hike for it, over rough trails, and brought the right clothes—that would have been a different story.

But, anyway, know your place and exactly what you're going to do in it. Then, take only the clothes that will fit the occasions for which they're intended, and don't, whatever you do, take so many of them that they are crowded in together and mussed if they are of the stiffish fabrics this year that must be absolutely fresh to be attractive. And, as a special hint to my ladies who would always be lovely, knitted fabrics for sports and lace for the evening are the best possible things you could pack into a limited space.

• • • •

I should have sketched this summer evening gown with some magic brush to show you how lovely is it in its pale golden beige color. That part I'll have to leave to your imagination—but you can see for yourself its graceful charm of lines, and its unusual application of the linen lace. This lace was rather an inspiration, for when I designed the frock I wanted something exactly the same color as the organdie, yet something out of the ordinary—'n' this lace, which is beautifully fine and intricate as you know, was just exactly what I was looking for to complete the delicate, pale golden image I had in mind.

• • • •

If you're, just a little bit tired of the ordinary run of colors and materials for your summer evening gowns, why don't you give some lengthy consideration to golden beige as a color, and to linen lace as a trimming? They are both utterly charming!

• • • •

Hold your evening hankie by its lace flower, if it matches the border as it does in the little cketch today! Or a black one, fragile as a shadow—hold it by its pink chiffon flower—or its black satin bow!

• • • •

The bathing suit that's most popular on the beach today is the one that's prepared for any emergency! 'N' have you noticed, that no matter how much you pay, few of them are just what you want at all times? But, if you hurry up and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washinton Post for this week's leaflet, you'll find that there is such a perfect beach ensemble. You can make it yourself, easily, and to suit your own individuality—'n' when I tell you that it includes shirts, shorts, skirts for the sands, pajamas, a slip-on gingham dress, and milyums of other things for beach loveliness, you'll see why I said to hurry!

• • • •

And on Sunday morning hurry to look for the weekly Dare Fashion letter in the Sunday Post.

Au Revoir!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 8:45 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 10:10 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:50 p. m.

June 4 is a propitious day for almost everything. The stars denote that business people will find the day rich in opportunity and promotion. Social activities will be favored, while private affairs will assume a pleasing outlook. It is also a good occasion for both betrothals and marriage.

Children born on this June 4 will develop quickly, both physically and intellectually. They will be persevering and ambitious. Not only are they destined to win honors at school, but they are also fated to gain much material success in life. Their dispositions will be affectionate and kind.

You, if born on June 4, have a not altogether unjustified high regard for yourself and your opinions. Yet there is no earthly reason why you should always belittle the efforts of others. You must learn to realize that there are other pebbles on the beach, and patting yourself on the back is not an exercise that keeps you fit. It is more liable to induce swelling of the head.

You are fairly patient, although you succeed in making others impatient. When angered, you are apt to fly into a rage, even though you know by experience that loss of self-control causes you to do and say things which you afterward regret. Your best bet in life is, if possible, work in the country, as you are decidedly at your best when free from disturbing factors.

Although rather selfishly fond of your own companionship, you are fully alive to the attractions of the opposite sex. The signs denote that you will not marry young. It will take you a long time to make up your mind. Only after marriage, whether you be man or woman, will you begin to appreciate the fact that you are not quite so important as you were prone to believe whilst single. Success, in no small measure, awaits you when you know and feel that "there are others."

Successful people born June 4:

Jeremy Belknap—Founded Massachusetts Historical Society.
Eckley B. Coxe—Mining engineer.
George III—King of England.
Wendell P. Garrison—Editor and author.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH. D.

THE family name "Dale" is the modern form of the Old English "dael" which, in turn, is derived from the Old Norse "dalr." It means "the dale" or "valley," and indicates an original place of residence. However, in a few cases this name has become confused with "Dole" and "Deal." The Hundred Rolls mentions a Ralph de la Dale and a Thomas de la Dale. A document dated 1332 bears the name of Richard del Dale.

The family names "Dole," "Deal" and "Deale" have the same source and meaning. They are derived from the Old English "dael" meaning "the allotment" and "the boundary mark," and they point out an original place of residence. A certain William de la Dole is mentioned in the Hundred Rolls. A certain John atte Dele was vicar of Wigenhale County, Norfolk, in 1374. There is evidence that in some cases the above names have become confused with "Dale."

In early days the personal name "Solomon" was extremely popular in England, although it was generally spelled "Salomon." That old spelling has generally resulted in such modern family names as "Salamon," "Salaman," "Saleman" and "Salomans." Although there are some old English families whose names are spelled "Solomon," "Soloman," etc. the majority of persons whose names are spelled thus are of Jewish descent. This personal name is of Hebrew origin, and may be translated "peaceful" and "peaceable." The Hundred Rolls mentions the names of Richard Salaman, Richard Saleman, Alicia Saleman and John Solyman. In Germany the various forms of this family name are common to both Christians and Jews. The most frequently found German forms are "Salomo," "Salomon" and "Salaman."

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

IS there such a thing as a general garden spray? I can not afford to purchase one only good for one insect. My garden is alive with all sorts of bugs. MARJORY T. P.

Yes; the following spray is for general garden use. It combines the properties of a stomach poison and a contact insecticide:

Arsenate of Lead Spray.

3 teaspoonfuls of arsenate of lead powder.
1 ounce of any liquid soap.
1 teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate.
A gallon of water.

As this formula contains poison, it must be kept out of the reach of children or other irresponsible persons.

Please tell me how to save iris; they are planted in a spot in my garden where the earth worms are prevalent. MRS. IRVING F.

Earth worms will not harm your iris or any other plants. However, if you want to get rid of these crawlers pour some limewater over the soil. This will cause the worms to come to the surface, where they can be collected and destroyed.

Please tell me how to make kerosene emulsion. HARRIET D. L.

Kerosene emulsion is the standard remedy against all sucking insects such as plant lice, plant bugs, scale insects and the like and is of value against other soft-bodied insects, which can not for different reasons be safely poisoned by paris green and similar insecticides. The best form for ordinary use is the kerosene soap emulsion, made by combining two gallons of kerosene, one-half pound of whale-oil soap or one quart of soft soap with one gallon of water. The soap should be dissolved in boiling water and then poured while still warm (away from the fire) into the kerosene. The mixture must then be churned violently for about five minutes by means of a force-pump. At the end of this time the mixture will have become the consistency of thick cream. This emulsion will keep indefinitely. Dilute it only as you need it. For most insects except scale or bark lice the staple emulsion should be diluted with from fifteen to twenty parts of water.

Does candytuft require much sun and a moderately rich soil? That is the environment in which I am attempting to grow this plant. I might add it is not doing very well. ELSA DE H.

Iberis or candytuft requires a great deal of water. It also requires sun and a fairly rich soil.

Please tell me how often to prune a honeysuckle and when to prune forsythia bush. MRS. F. P. M.

Prune honeysuckle severely in the spring, then, in order to keep it in bounds, prune it once a month. Prune forsythia at this time.

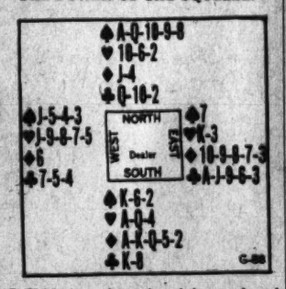
WORK ON BRIDGE

THE POWER OF THE SQUEEZE.



HAD the above hand been played at Auction Bridge the bidding would have been: South one No Trump, West pass, North two Spades; and while South might have called two No Trumps, it doubtless would have been wiser for him to permit North to play at Spades.

However, the hand was played at Contract and South with a count of 21 and every suit stopped, bid three No Trumps. North with a count of 9 (exclusive of his Tens and his long suit, neither of which are reckoned when bidding for slams) bid four No Trumps. To have bid four Spades in this position would not have been a slam indication as that call over three No Trumps is reserved for a long weak suit. South passed North's four No Trumps; holding merely a minimum three No Trump bid he would not be justified in pursuing the elusive slam.

West opened with the Seven of Hearts and South took East's King with the Ace. South then led a small Spade, winning with the Queen in dummy; then led a Club from dummy, his scheme being to shut out the Ace of Clubs if East held it and did not cash it on that trick. East did not see the danger of holding up once, so South won with the King of Clubs and led the King of Spades. East's discard of a Club disclosed an interesting Spade situation which assuerd the Declarer of all the Spade tricks by a finesse on the next round, and the needed Heart and Club discard which would produce 13 tricks undess five Diamonds were held in one hand.

If five Diamonds were held in one hand, East clearly would be the hand to hold them, and East also had the Ace of Clubs. Therefore a squeeze could be worked if South led the Queen of Hearts at this stage. That was done and then North was put in to run the remaining Spades, South discarding a Heart and a Club. East had three more discards on the Spade leads. He could let three more Clubs go with perfect safety, but he could not afford to discard the Ace of Clubs with the Queen in the dummy hand; no he had to discard a Diamond. The moment that happened, South's Diamonds all became good and Declarer's 13 tricks were established.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

A LONELY WIDOWER.

DEAR Frances McDonald: Just a few lines to you. I read an article in your column and it certainly appeals to me the way you give your sound advice. Now, what I want to ask you is a personal question. A year ago my wife died and I am left alone to think out a way best for myself in this world. No better woman than she could have been found. I am boarding at present with her parents, who think the world of me, but that isn't helping me out of my loneliness. It just seems too lonely for words for me. All my friends about me advise me to marry again. They tell me to get myself a good woman and start anew. Now I am coming to the point. You know there are some women today that would be good companions and some that are not so good. I am asking you to tell me which you think best for me to do—marry or leave well enough alone? I am 36 years old, and am told that I am a wonderful fellow for friendship and companionship. Now please don't let the public know of my writing to you through the column. If you can help me to decide I will very deeply appreciate it. PUZZLED PHASE.

Of course you should marry again. And since your wife was so much all that you could wish, why not begin to cultivate the acquaintance of some of the girls she knew, or some of her unmarried cousins? The first step is to begin going out. Start going about with other men and gradually you will be drawn into their circle of acquaintance, meeting their sisters and girl friends.

Usually there are hordes of community matchmakers just lying in wait for unsuspecting young widowers. I am astonished that you have escaped their well-meant endeavors. You will surely encounter them when you start going about. It is their chief object in life to see that no one is allowed to roam around without a leash firmly attached to the collar, and a good firm hand on the leash. They begin by calling the victim on the telephone to make a fourth at bridge, or some other equally innocent activity. And presently the chances of escape depend entirely upon whether or not the said victim can leave town. For one who is in your situation these folks are heaven sent. For others they are something less than that. Proceed to cultivate the people who are advising you to marry. I seem to sense a plot right there. If you ever "accidentally" meet any young ladies at their homes, you might begin to take notice. They will probably be combing the countryside to trot out the various girls.

Getting married is no longer a difficult matter. Getting the right one to marry is. So study every girl carefully. Looks do not matter, as every well-loved woman is lovely in her own way. But do pick one with sound sense and frank, calm eyes. And be sure to write and tell me all about her before you plunge.

HAM TASTES BETTER WHEN BOILED OR BAKED WITH SUGAR

Sugar Combines Ideally with Salty Tang of Smoked Ham

There are few meats that can surpass ham in taste-appeal and popularity. When it comes from the oven glazed with sugar and dotted with cloves, it is tantalizing to have to wait for a pink, savory-sweet slice.

To develop the flavor of ham to the utmost, put half a cup of sugar and half a cup of vinegar in the water in which your half or whole ham simmers. Then after the ham is tender let it remain in the water until cool. The result is a delicious, savory flavor.

Ham, however, is but one of the many foods where sugar can be used to advantage. In seasoning meat stews and pot-roasts, canned or fresh vegetables, a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt greatly improves the flavor. Salt by itself merely overcomes flatness. It is the sugar that "brings out" the flavor. Most foods are more delicious with sugar.

KING GEORGE DELAYS CEREMONY FOR RACE

Celebration of Birthday Is Postponed to Latter Part of Week.

London, June 3 (A.P.). — King George V, in celebrating his sixty-sixth birthday anniversary today, postponed the customary pomp and ceremony of the anniversary in order to go to Epsom Downs to witness the greatest classic of horse racing, the Irish Hospital Derby Sweepstakes.

With Queen Mary he motored to the race track before noon. There he met the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York for luncheon.

Cheered by the thousands at the track, the king and his party entered a special box, from where they saw Cameronian's thrilling finish to win the historic race.

Later the monarch returned to Buckingham Palace, where he dined quietly with the queen this evening.

Almost the only caller today was the Duke of Connaught, the king's uncle, who visited him before the start for Epsom Downs to offer birthday congratulations.

The ceremony of "trooping of the colors," usually held on the ruler's birthday, will take place Saturday, and a birthday luncheon for the royal family probably will be held before then.

Many shops and banks were closed in honor of the day. Ships in the harbor were gaily decorated with bunting.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday sent a message of felicitation to King George on the occasion of the British ruler's birthday.

"May I take this occasion, of the sixty-sixth anniversary of Your Majesty's birth, to reiterate the cordial good wishes of the American people and to add my sincere personal congratulations," the President said.

Simultaneously the President sent a cordial message to a member of Far Eastern royalty on the occasion of the departure of the Prince and Princess Takamatsu of Japan from Honolulu, the last American Territory they will visit on their trip around the world.

YEARS OF GRACE

By MARGARET AYER BARNES

SYNOPSIS.

Jane and Agnes bid good-by to one another, after a gay week in New York, and Jane promises Agnes to look after Jimmy, who is to follow her to Chicago on a milk train. Jane, Flora and Mr. Farnese, who have just returned from Europe, catch the Twentieth Century Limited, and Jane is astonished to find Jimmy Trent stretched in the observation car. He tells her he believes in enjoying himself, and after he has told Jane the romantic story of his wandering life as the son of a revivalist minister, Jane feels she knows him very well indeed. She looks forward to seeing a great deal of Jimmy in Chicago. Soon after her arrival home, Muriel's husband, Bert Lancaster, is stricken with paralysis.

JIMMY—CHAPTER VI.

JANE watched the burnished sun sink slowly beneath the flat horizon, the low clouds lose their color and turn darkly purple, the high clouds flame with pink and pure translucent gold. Then they, too, faded into wisps of gray. The western sky was lemon colored now. A crescent moon was tangled in the oak boughs.

Jimmy Trent, his hat in his hand, his fiddle case under his arm, stood smiling at her on the threshold. The children had left the front door open, of course. He had come in quietly——

"Hello!" said Jimmy. "How's every little thing?"

"Jimmy!" said Jane. "Come in! Sit down. I'm awfully glad to see you!"

"That's quite as it should be," said Jimmy. "May I stay to dinner?"

"Of course," said Jane. Then, before she could stop herself, "Why didn't you telephone?"

"Why didn't you telephone me?" said Jimmy, tossing his hat on a table and placing the fiddle case beside it. "You could have, you know, at the Daily News."

Jane thought her reason for not telephoning Jimmy might sound a little foolish. If you said you thought a man should telephone you first, it really seemed as if you took the fact that he had not telephoned quite seriously.

Likes Chicago, He Tells Her.

"Oh, I don't know," said Jane. "I've been busy."

"So have I," said Jimmy. "Awfully busy. It's the first time in six years that I've cut loose from a woman's apron strings in a big city. I like Chicago."

"Do you like your job?" said Jane severely. Jimmy looked white, she thought, and just a little tired.

"My job?" said Jimmy. "Oh, yes. I like my job. It isn't vary arduous."

"I hope you're working at it," said Jane.

"Now, Jane," said Jimmy sweetly, "lay off salvation. I get enough of that at home." He strolled over to the hearthrug and took his stand upon it, his back toward the smouldering fire. He was still smiling. "I met Stephen at noon today. I met him, I regret to tell you, Jane, in the University Club bar. Every one was talking about this Lancaster's stroke. Stephen said he was going up to see Mrs. Lancaster this evening. So I thought I'd come out with my fiddle and offer you a little entertainment. I want to play you Debussy's 'La Fille aux Cheveux de Laine.'"

Modern But Not Morbid.

"How nice of you," said Jane a little uncertainly.

"Like Debussy?" asked Jimmy.

"Yes," said Jane.

"Me, too, said Jimmy.

There was a moment of silence. Jane suddenly realized how dark the room had grown. She turned on a lamp and sat down in her chair by the fireside.

"This is nice," said Jimmy. "This is very nice." He was looking interestedly around the chintz-hung living room. The panelled walls, the books, the Steinway, the few good pieces of mahogany furniture all seemed to meet with his approval. "It's just like you, Jane. Modern, but not morbid."

"I must go up and dress for dinner," said Jane, rising suddenly. "Here's the newspaper if you'd like to read it until I come down."

"Are you glad I came?" The question arrested her abruptly in the doorway. Curiously enough, Jane was not quite sure. But——

"Very glad," said Jane evenly. She mounted the staircase rather slowly. She wasn't quite sure about the gladness. Nevertheless, she was inexplicably determined to look her best that evening. She would put on that red Poiret tea-gown she had so foolishly bought at a bargain sale last June. She had often regretted that folly. What use had Jane at Lakewood or Gull Rocks for a red Poiret tea-gown?

* * * *

Jimmy Captivates Miss Parrot.

"Let's play parchesi," said little Steve.

"I have to telephone Aunt Isabel," said Cicily.

"I haven't done my practising," said Jenny.

They were all sitting around the living room fire. Jane was presiding over the little silver coffee service on the table at her knee. Sarah was passing the creme de menthe. The little cutglass goblets, filled with vivid green liquid, looked very festive and frivolous, on the small silver tray. Jimmy grasped his with a sigh of satisfaction. Miss Parrot took hers with the deprecatory gesture of every trained nurse accepting an alcoholic beverage. Jane sipped hers with the comforting realization that the ice was perfectly pulverized.

"Do you like parchesi?" said little Steve to Jimmy.

"I love it," said Jimmy, "but I hurt my finger yesterday and I'm afraid I couldn't throw the dice."

Miss Parrot, having finished her creme de menthe, rose wtih a smile. She was obviously quite captivated by Jimmy.

"Come up to the playroom, children," she said. "I'll play parchesi with you."

"I can't believe," said Jimmy, as he lit a cigarette, "that those great children are yours."

"They are," said Jane briefly.

"Cicily's a perfect heart-breaker," said Jimmy.

"I'm afraid she will be," said Jane.

"Why 'afraid'?" asked Jimmy.

I don't think breaking hearts is a very rewarding occupation," said Jane.

Jane Has Never Broken Hearts.

"Oh—some one else can always mend them," said Jimmy lightly. He twinkled across at her, through a blue streak of cigarette smoke. "You know that, don't you, Jane?"

"I've never broken any hearts," said Jane, smiling. "So really I don't."

"Well—experience is the best teacher," said Jimmy affably.

Sarah reentered the room to remove the coffee tray. She picked up the cups and the little cutglass goblets with the silent efficiency of the perfect servant and retired noiselessly into the hall.

"It moves on greased wheels, doesn't it, Jane?" said Jimmy.

"What does?" asked Jane.

"Your life," said Jimmy.

"Yes," said Jane. "But I grease them."

"I suppose you do," said Jimmy. "But you don't mind it, do you?"

"I get awfully sick of it," said Jane honestly.

Jimmy watched her for a moment in silence behind the cigarette smoke.

"Sick of what?" he said presently.

"Sick," said Jane earnestly, "of greasing wheels. Sick of running the house and bossing the servants and dressing the children. Sick of seeing that everything looks pretty and everything goes right. Sick of seeing that the living-room is dusted before ten every morning and that dinner is served on the stroke of seven every night. Sometimes I wonder what's the use of it all. Sometimes I wish that Stephen and I could just tear up our roots and buy a couple of knapsacks and put the children in a covered wagon and start out to see the world. Just wander, you know, for a year or two. Wander everywhere, before we're too old to do it. Not bother about anything. Not care. Not do anything we didn't really want to—— I suppose you think I'm crazy!" She broke off abruptly.

"Your Just Right," He Replies.

"Crazy?" said Jimmy. "I think you're just right. There's a lot of the nomad in me, you know. I guess the tent got into my blood. If I'd been born a gypsy instead of a Methodist minister's son I'd never have broken home ties. Golly!"—he waved his cigarette with enthusiasm—"I'd like to go round the world. Round and round it in circles. Round it in every latitude. Let's do it, Jane! Let's surprise Stephen tonight! You leave a note on the pincushion and I'll send a wire to Agnes. 'Gone—to points unknown!' We'll set out for the Golden Gate—I guess we can buy those knapsacks in the Northwestern Station—and sail for the South Sea Islands and drift over to Siam and Burma and India and on up to China—and by that time Stephen and Agnes will have divorced us and I'll make you an honest woman, Jane, in a little Chinese shrine with the temple bells ringing overhead, and we'll wander on, through Tibet and Afghanistan and Persia to Asia Minor, or maybe up to Russia, and then down through the civilized countries, which won't be so nice, but where the food will be much better, to Africa, Jane! To the Dark Continent. And maybe when we get there we'll stay—stay in the village of some cannibal king who never even heard of a musical critic or a suburban housewife, where concertos for the violin are unknown and living rooms are never dusted! How about it, Jane?" He paused out of breath and looked engagingly over at her.

Alluring, But Uncomfortable.

"It sounds very alluring," said Jane, "but a little uncomfortable."

"Comfort!" scoffed Jimmy. "You don't really care about comfort!"

"Yes, I do!" cried Jane. "When I haven't got it! And so do you. I don't know you so awfully well, Jimmy, but I do know you well enough to know that. You care so much about comfort that you won't get up in the morning and make your own bed for Agnes! You won't ride on a milk train instead of the Twentieth Century! I don't think you'd be so good in a jungle. When I go to a jungle, I think I'll take Stephen. He'd be very, capable there."

"I'm sure," said Jimmy, cheerfully, "he'd have sanitary plumbing installed in a fortnight. Nevertheless, something tells me that Stephen is no gypsy. If you ever see the Dark Continent with Stephen, you'll see it in the discreet light shed on it by Thomas Cook & Sons! But as for me, with or without Agnes, I'm going to see the world before I die."

"Mumsy"—it was little Steve on the threshold—"we want to kiss you good night."

"Come in," said Jean. "Come in, all of you." The three children were lingering in the doorway.

"How'd the game come out, Steve?" asked Jimmy affably.

"Miss Parrot won," said Steve, gloomily. "She always does."

"I'm going to send you a set of loaded dice," said Jimmy, benevolently. "Come in, kids, and sit down." He rose as he spoke. "I want to sing to you." He had picked up his fiddle case and was removing the violin. Jane looked up in surprise. Jimmy was a strange mixture of contradictions. The childen settled themselves delightedly on the floor near the fire. Jimmy tucked his violin under his chin and tuned it airly as he sauntered across the room.

"It's an old English ballad," he said, "and a particular favorite of mine. It appeals to your mother, too, who is really a gypsy at heart. Did you know that, children? There she sits by those polished brass andirons, looking very pretty in a French tea-gown, but at heart she's dancing barefoot by a bonfire in a tattered red shawl—dancing in the dark of the moon to the tinkle of a tambourine."

The children were staring at him in wide-eyed fascination. They were still staring when he began softly to sing:

"There were three gypsies a-come to my door,
And downstairs ran my lady, O!
One sang high and the other sang low,
And the other sang bonny, bonny Biscay, O!

"Then she pulled off her silk-finished gown
And put on hose of leather, O!
The ragged, ragged rags about our door—
She's gone with the raggle-taggle gypsies, O!"

Smiles Mockingly at Jane.

Jimmy paused to smile mockingly at Jane, drawing his bow with a flourish across the strings of his violin.

"Oh, what care I for a goosefeather bed,
With the sheet turned down so bravely, O!
For tonight I shall sleep in a cold open field,
Along with the raggle-taggle gypsies, O!"

He dropped his bow abruptly. In the sudden silence Steve's voice rang out shrill with interest.

"And did she?"

"That lady did," said Jimmy gravely. "She had the courage of her convictions."

"And she never went back?" pursued Steve eagerly.

"Oh that I can't tell you," said Jimmy gaily. "The song doesn't say. I shouldn't be surprised if she did, though. Lots of ladies do."

"Children—you must go to bed," said Jane. "It's very late."

"I must go back to town," said Jimmy. He was putting the violin away in its case.

"Must you?" said Jane. "It's very early."

"I think I must," said Jimmy.

"But we haven't had any Debussy," said Jane.

"We'll have him next time," smiled Jimmy.

"We'll have Stephen next time, too," said Jane.

Tuesday Dinner Engagement.

"That will be delightful," said Jimmy. The words might have seemed sarcastic if he had not been smiling so pleasantly. Suddenly, hat in hand, he crossed the room. He held out his hand to Jane. "You must make Stephen like me," he said disarmingly.

"He will," said Jane. Looking up into Jimmy's charming faunlike face, Jane, at the moment, could not imagine any one not liking him.

"I hope he will, Jane," said Jimmy. "For I like you."

"Stephen always likes people who like me," said Jane loyally.

"Then that's just as it should be," said Jimmy. "When may I come again?"

"How about Tuesday?" said Jane. "Come out to dinner. Take the 5:50 with Stephen."

"I will," said Jimmy. "Good-night, kids! Now, all together, before I go! Do you like me? The answer is 'yes'!"

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sermesky

THE SAILOR'S NECKERCHIEF.

IN EARLY SEA FIGHTS SAILORS STRIPPED TO THEIR WAISTS AND TO PREVENT PERSPIRATION FROM RUNNING INTO THEIR EYES, TIED HANDKERCHIEFS AROUND THEIR HEADS. WHEN NOT FIGHTING, THE HANDKERCHIEFS WERE WORN AROUND THEIR NECKS. SAILORS STILL USE THEM.

"BLACK JACK" PERSHING

ONE OF GENERAL PERSHING'S FIRST ARMY ASSIGNMENTS WAS IN A COLORED REGIMENT. HIS COMRADES WHO HAD CALLED HIM JACK PREFIXED THE WORD "BLACK."

DUNCE

JOANNES DUNS SCOTUS WAS A LEARNED THEOLOGIAN WHO LIVED IN THE THIRTEENTH CENTURY. THOSE WHO HELD VIEWS THAT DISAGREED WITH HIS SATIRICALLY APPLIED THE WORD DUNSMAN TO HIS FOLLOWERS. LATER THE WORD WAS CORRUPTED TO "DUNCE" AND APPLIED TO STUPID PEOPLE.

TOMORROW—Poor as Job's Turkey; Legend; Witch Hazel.

If you have other ideas as to HOW IT BEGAN, write to Russ Murphy, care of The Washington Post. If you want to see how some other particular custom or saying began, let Russ Murphy know and his answer will be illustrated in this series.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DURING the Louisiana Purchase exposition held in St. Louis a quarter of a century ago, Dr. P. Hoffman, of that city, made a study of the feet of certain savage Negro tribes. He compared the lower extremes of these barefoot people with those of certain other sandal wearing folk and also with those of white people who had worn shoes since babyhood. Some of his conclusions are so important that one wonders why a quarter of a century has passed with no results from the study.

Dr. Hoffman found that so-called "flat foot" is a misnomer. So is "fallen arch" and "broken arch." People have "weak foot" and "painful foot," as everybody knows, but these do not result from flat-foot, fallen arches or broken arches. Painful foot results from standing or walking with the toes turned out, and the height of the arch or its shape are not factors. Some of the best, most comfortable and most useful feet he saw were those with no arches whatsoever.

The principal fault found with shoes was that they were not broad enough in front. The natural human foot is almost pyramidal. It has a broad base in front at the toes, and then diagonal side lines back to a narrow heel. In walking the foot spreads laterally at the front end. It elongates very little in comparison. Therefore shoes should be very broad in the toe region, nearly as broad in the ball region, and narrow in the heel region.

The feet have the same shape in infancy in both savages and civilized. It is wearing shoes that gives the civilized man an ugly, distorted foot, with crooked, useless toes; that causes painful feet, turning out of the toes and results in a member on a low plane of usefulness. The foot of the savage is a much better member and that of the sandal wearer is practically as good as that of the savage.

Civilized man, to get back good feet, must wear shoes that are very broad, or he must wear sandals. In addition, he must train himself to walk pigeontoed. His standing position must be with the heels far apart and the toes pointing straight ahead.

In the same collection with this report is an X-ray picture of a foot on which there is a bunion, and the front end of the toes are pushed together so that they overlie. At the ball the bones are widely separated. Between the bones of the first toe and those of the second there is an inch of space at the ball joint. In this space there lies a sesamoid bone wedging the toe bones apart. This wedging causes a practical dislocation of the big toe at this ball joint. Narrow-toed shoes have done their part in dislocating the toes.

GROWTH MAY BE THERE.

Constant Reader writes:

1. Is there such a thing as a growth between the large and small intestines? Is that one form of cancer?

2. When a person has a vomiting spell and everything that comes up is black, what ist it?

3. Am I wrong in saying a bathroom window should always be kept down 2 inches from the top, and that when a person is sick enough to stay in bed there should always be some fresh air in the room, being careful that there is no draft?

REPLY.

1. There may be. It may be cancer or something else.

2. This may be blood, or it may be bile.

3. Both bathrooms and sickrooms should be well ventilated.

Judge's Sporting Spirit Saves Heavy Fines

Chicago, June 3 (U.P.).—Judge Alfred O. Erickson is not only a pugilist but a good sport. Two men, who said they were "fighting drunk" on moonshine, attacked the judge and his bailiff on their way to court. When the pair were arraigned before the judge, and explained the reason for the attack, he refused to inflict a severe penalty.

"I'm enough of a sportsman to accept your apologies," he said. "I advise you to quit drinking that stuff. Pay the clerk $1 each and you may go."

BURKE HOLDS TIGERS TO 3 HITS IN NATS' 2-1 TRIUMPH; FARRELL'S 72 TIES 2 BRITONS FOR LEAD IN OPEN GOLF

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

GARBED in the gray and gold of the Detroit Tigers, a young fellow of just average size with straight, nicely tapered legs, was fungoing balls to the infield for the best part of a half hour yesterday at Griffith Stadium in the pregame practice. With him there was none of the nonchalance and infinite boredom with which the stout old gentlemen of another baseball era who eke out a livelihood as coaches at first and third base with most of the clubs perform the routine duties of batting out balls to the infield and outfield.

The figure in the Detroit uniform made a job of hitting those fungoes yesterday, working up a running perspiration with all the vim and impetuosity of a rookie trying to make good. There was something familiar in that swart, sun-tanned visage that peeked from beneath the long-pointed black caps of the road uniforms.

He had just romped in from second base a bit before, where he spent a session roaming over the territory by second base, smothering the easy ones, getting in the way of potential base hits and flinging the ball to first and to the other bags with unerring aim from far off balance. He chased away the others who sought to relieve him from his post.

Harness Beckons

"I've got to get in shape in case anything happens out there," said Bucky Harris. "I'll be all right if the old legs don't get heavy. I've been out there three days now and I like it. I haven't got so far to go to get in shape."

An epidemic of injuries among the Tiger infielders has shaken the erstwhile boy manager of the pennant-winning Washington clubs of 1924 and 1925 from his resolve to retire as playing manager and confine his duties to bench strategy. Gehringer, the league's best second baseman, has not been available since the start of the season. Big Dale Alexander, his first baseman, is in Detroit nursing an ugly spike wound, and Marvin Owen, his shortstop, is holding forth at first. One more injury or accident will find Bucky Harris back in the line-up at second base, a ball player for the first time since 1928, when he left the Nats to assume the management of the Tigers.

Put Town On Map

Buck's back in the town that he put on the baseball map seven years ago, a town which wasted no sympathies on their boy idol of a few years before when the Nats failed to maintain a position near the top. There were no loud protestations at his passing and what objections that were expressed were quickly swallowed up in the wave of approbation that followed announcement of the news that Walter Johnson would return to the scene of his pitching conquests as manager of the Nats.

Bucky's here with a team that has lost 15 of its last 17 games, virtually removing his club as a pennant possibility. The slump of the Tigers is the spark that has ignited his determination to play again and even in the absence of a declaration that he will soon be in the line-up, correspondents traveling with the team expect his presence at second base probably by Sunday.

Harris has never completely cut himself away from the line-up. He has always retained his status on the playing list and his return to the game would require no ceremonies. He has appeared once this season in the role of a pinch runner but he told me tha it was not until the Tigers slumped that he intended to return to the diamond at some time.

Together with the absence of Gehringer and Alexander, indications are that Harris is not pleased with the play of Akers at shortstop, or Koenig at second base. He said "sloppy" fielding as much as anything else is accountable for the low state of the club's fortunes.

Melillo's 4 Hits Defeat Yanks for Browns, 8-6

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Oscar Melillo was the big noise for the St. Louis Browns today, driving in four runs with four lusty hits to give the Browns an 8 to 6 victory over the Yankees in the second game of the series.

Melillo's home run in the eighth, his eighth consecutive blow in two days, drove in Jenkins with the tying and winning runs.

Although given poor support, Wally Stewart was tight in the pinches and registered his sixth victory of the year.

Armour and Sarazen Rated Threats With 73 and 74.

Mac Smith Shares in Tie With Kirkwood, Has 75 Card.

By FRANK H. KING.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, June 3 (A. P.).—Johnny Farrell scored a par 72 over the windy Carnoustie course in the opening round of play of the British open golf championship. The Irishman of Quaker Ridge led the field with that 72 until Harry Cotton, 24-year-old British profesional, came bustling in to tie him, and then W. T. (Billie) Twince, the tall young pro from Bromley, Kent, sauntered in with the late starters to make the lead three-cornered.

Farrell carried snugly in his pocket the rabbit's foot that accompanied Jess Swetser to victory in the British amateur championship at Muirfield in 1926, when Big Jess played around in figures considerably below the influenza fever he was running.

Ability Counted More Than Rabbit's Foot.

The rabbit's foot might have had something to do with Johnny's score today, but most observers would say it was his fine shots from the tee, his crisp iron work through the fairways and around the greens, and his magic putting touch that counted most.

Playing in half a gale that had many of those who know Scotland bettter than Johnny floundering around, he moved steadily along, ran into trouble, but didn't let it bother him, and finished off by ramming home a 30-foot putt on the eighteenth green.

Farrell's outward hike was unmarred by a single error. He started home with two orthodox fours, but the long twelfth proved his undoing. First he put his drive into a bunker, then he clipped short and required three putts. He got his par three at the short thirteenth and his par five at the long fourteenth, but he went one over perfect figures on the fifteenth. He put his drive at the sixteenth, but got out safely and a 15-footer dropper for him.

At the seventeenth he just missed a yard putt for a par hole and a subpar round. Playing over water hazards at the home hole, he got on in three and then sank a 30-foot putt for his par four.

Seven of Eight U. S. Entrants Well Up Near Top.

"Just taking it easy," he said after his round, and that's the secret of golf, as Bobby Jones and others will tell you.

Well up with Farrell in the fight to keep in the United States the cup Bobby won last year, and which has been held by invaders from the other side of the water nine of the last ten years, were seven of the eight Americans in the tourney.

Tommy Armour, with Farrell and Gene Sarazen, a former United States open champion, although a Scot by birth, held fourth place behind the three leaders with a 73, and Sarazen shared fifth place with several others, a stroke behind Armour. Armour's 35 on the homeward nine, where most hopes went glimmering, was the best mark of the day.

"I might have had a wonderful score," Armour said, rather sadly, "but I missed my chances coming home."

Those chances were on the putting greens, where he thrice needed three putts with birdie possible if he could have got the long ones to drop.

His four on the par five eighteenth, the most dangerous hole on the course, was his best effort.

Smith, Medalist, Ties With Kirkwood, With 75.

MacDonald Smith, native of Carnoustie and medalist, had some tough going and took a 75, the same score as Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot artist who now lives in New York.

Robins' Errors in Ninth Give Cubs 9-8 Victory

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Robins' inner defense collapsed in the ninth inning today and the Cubs scored two unearned runs to break the visitors' winning streak and square the series, 9 to 8.

Cuyler romped home with the tying run when Thompson muffed Wilson's grounder and English, who had gained a life on Gilbert's muff, scored the winning tally on Hemsley's clean single. It was a hard loss for the doggers, who had come from behind to take the lead after the Cubs had scored five runs off Vance in the second inning. Babe Herman led the Brooklyn attack with four hits, including his eighth home run of the year.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 3 (A.P.).—The Giants evened their series with the Cardinals and reduced the league champions' first-place margin to a game and a half by taking the second contest today, 9-5.

McGraw's men gained an early lead by pounding Jess Haines for eight hits and five runs and knocking him from the box in the fourth inning. St. Louis cut down the lead to one run by scoring twice in the eighth, but the Giants sewed it up with three more in the ninth.

Knives Among Missiles Flung as Fascisti Differ With Decisions at Bouts

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, June 3.—The Fascisti don't seem able to take it. Their boxing team stormed out of the arena at Madison Square Garden in a dramatic huff when their flyweight boxer, Edelweis Rodriguez, lost a decision to Louis Salica, of New York, in the opening bout of a program conducted by the Metropolitan A. A. U., and the house went nito the most riotous uproar seen in a public assembly in New York since the long parliament of the Democratic party at the old garden, down town, in 1924.

Two knives were thrown from the upper sections of the the auditorium, one of them a pocket-knife, which the impetuous remohstrant, in his wrath, had forgotten to open; the other a Sicilian social blade, which flashed past the arm of a feminine customer and fell on the concrete floor. Mr. Walter Trumbull, the journalist, who was sitting nearby, reports that he saw this one fall and identifies the lady who had the close shave as Mrs. Charles Francis Coe, wife of the author of gangland fiction.

As the announcer pointed to the little New York fighter at the end of a hard, fast three-round bout the Italian flyweight champion, who is flyweight champion of Europe as well, emitted a shrill squawk of anguish and hurled himself to the canvas with a resounding flop, while his trainer, a half-bald young man with owl-rimmed spectacles set on a prominent nose, leaped into the ring and waved his arms to the galleries in a furious protest.

For a moment all this hysteria seemed rather comic, for the American boy had clearly won the first two rounds of the fight and thought he might have been held even in the third, his margin was quite apparent.

But it had been claimed, if not established, on behalf of little Edelweis that he had never lost a bout in a rather extensive career of competition in Italy and other European countries, and the novelty of defeat was too much for the gallant fascisti, including those in the galleries. As Edelweis sprawled whimpering and heaving on the soiled canvas of the

700,000 See Cameronian Triumph

Favorite Comes From Rear to Win Derby at Epsom.

Orpen Second, Sandwich Third; U. S. Entries Trail.

By TOM WHILHELM.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, June 3 (A. P.).—Shaking off challenger after challenger, J. A. Dewar's Cameronian thundered down the stretch at Epsom Downs today, winner of the 148th "golden" Derby. The race was witnessed by the royal family and upward of 700,000 others of England's royalty and commoners.

Backed by countless thousands until he went to the post a 7-to-2 favorite, Cameronian showed a clean pair of heels to a classy field of 24 other 3-year-olds. Three-quarters of a length back followed Sir John Rutherford's Orpen, a 9-to-1 choice, while a like distance to the rear came Lord Rosebery's Sandwich, which was quoted at 8 to 1.

As the favorite scored for the first time in recent years, the American contingent of Marshall Field's Jacopo and William Woodward's Sir Andrew finished out of the money. Of the two, Jacopo made the best showing, finishing in seventh place, while Sir Andrew wound up twentieth.

Race Is Triumph for Jockey Fox.

The victory in the Derby was the second major turf triumph for Cameronian's owner, who inherted the colt from the late Lord Dewar. Cameronian previously had won the Two Thousand Guineas, one of the 3-year-old classics of the English turf. Lord Dewar spent many unsuccessful years trying to win the Derby.

It was as much a victory for Freddy Fox, England's leading jockey last year, as it was for the horse. The little fellow staged a brilliant ride to bring his mount down past the judges' stand in front. He worked his way up among the leaders before the first few furlongs had been covered, and then held Cameronian well in restraint until he was ready to let the gallant 3-year-old run.

At famous Tattenham corner Fox pulled past the bunched leaders and, as Cameronian responded to the urging, steadily widened the gap. Without warning, two flying forms detached themselves from the herd and thundered after the fleet Dewar thoroughbred. With the huge crowd on its feet yelling, first Sandwich and then Orpen challenged unsuccessfully.

Cameronian Has Speed in Reserve.

Sandwich gave his all trying to stave off Orpen's rush and, although it was any horse's race to 50 yards from the finish, neither Orpen nor Sandwich was equal to the task of matching strides with the favorite. Cameronian had plenty in reserve when the others were no longer fleet.

The American hopes were held high during the first mile of the 1½-mile journey as Jacopo, With J. Childs up, hung on the leader's heels. In the end, however, he lacked the power to maintain the gruelling pace. Far back in the Downs country P. Beasley on Sir Andrew was having problems of his own, and the best he could do was twentieth with the horse which is a three-quarters brother of Gallant Fox, leading money winner of America.

Cameronian proved himself truly a great horse, as he stayed close to the leaders throughout the early part of the journey and then finished the distance in the good time of 2:36 3-5.

Few derbies in recent years have been so favored by the weather. With the breaking of day, clouds littered the sky and a strong wind whipped across the Downs country, boding rain for the classic of classics. With the coming of noon, however, sunshine greeted the countless thousands who streamed onto the race course from all points of the compass. They came by motor bus and limousine, bicycle and train. Mothers carried babies, fathers carried lunch baskets,

3d SOUTHPAW TO OPPOSE TIGERS

Brown in Box Today; Faces Tom Bridges, Clever Rookie.

BY the time the Tigers leave our fair city they should be well fed up with southpaw pitching. Carl Fischer beat them Tuesday, Bobby Burke turned the trick yesterday, and they will be called upon to face Lloyd Brown this afternoon—and Brownie in his present form is no bargain, either, as hitters who have opposed him this season will attest.

In the hope of breaking his losing streak, Harris will call on Tom Bridges. This youngster has hurled brilliant ball at times this season, but the Nationals knocked him off the peak when he started against them in Detroit before he could get his pitching machinery functioning. If he is in form today, quite a pitching duel should result.

League Favors 2 Umpires.

The designation of Tommy Connolly as chief of American League umpires does not mean that another will be appointed to succeed him as an active member of the staff, according to Clark Griffith, Nats' owner. Rather, Griffith states, it is the league's idea that the two-man system is better than having three assigned to each game and the league is working back to the old system.

"With three handling games," said Griffith, "the umpires have become lazy and have taken the 'let-John-do-it' attitude, frequently passing the buck to each other on close plays. By using only two men, it will keep both on their toes, and, we believe, will result in better umpiring.

"Connolly, as I understand it, will confine his efforts to keeping the umpires on their toes, and he will gradually weed out the poorer ones and decide which are to be retained. Under the plan in mind, only eight—with perhaps one extra—will be needed, instead of twelve."

Nearly 1,000 members of the District Boy Patrol—traffic aids for kiddies going back and forth from school—were guests of the Nats yesterday, and they proved to be world's champions as rooters.

Charley Dingler, Skinker Eagle flychaser, took a long workout before yesterday's game with President Clark Griffith personally giving him the "once over." He has been ordered to rejoin the Hagerstown Club Saturday.

Braves' Squeeze Play In Tenth Beats Pirates

Pittsburgh, June 3 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves evened the series count with the Pittsburgh Pirates by taking today's game in ten innings, 4 to 3.

In the extra inning Dreesen tripled and, with the aid of Maranville, worked a squeeze play to put over the winning tally. The Pirates had tied the count in the eighth, when L. Waner's single scored Brame, who had tripled.

COLUMBIA INVITATION TOURNEY DRAWS RECORD FIELD OF 510

Club Assigns 3 Days for Qualifying

List May Be Swelled by Additional Out-of-Town Entries.

Tournament to Open Monday; Practice Day Cancelled.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

ALL previous records of the number of entrants in a club invitation golf tournament in this section will be shattered when the Columbia Country Club event is held next week. The entry list was officially closed at 6 o'clock last Tuesday evening, but the mail yesterday morning brought additional names which were of necessity accepted. Up to yesterday afternoon 510 names had been listed, a number unequaled in any similar event in this district.

The fact that the club had been literally swamped by the number of golfers who desired to compete led yesterday afternoon to a meeting of the golf committee, under the chairmanship of George P. James, and the issuance of a formal statement. According to this announcement, it was quite apparent to the committee that it would be thoroughly impracticable to qualify such a large number on the two dates already provided for, and in order to meet the conditions the committee decided to devote all of Monday, June 8, in addition to Tuesday and Wednesday, June 9 and 10, to the qualifying round.

No Changes in Starting Times.

Never before in the history of invitation tournaments in this section have three days been necessary to accommodate the entry list. In meeting these abnormal conditions, the committee announces that while its policy has been in the past, and still is in the present case, to endeavor to accommodate the entrants with respect to the date, the time and with whom the qualifying round will be played, it is quite evident that on account of the unusually large entry list this can not in many cases be done. The committee will, therefore, of necessity be compelled to arbitrarily assign the time, date and partners in many cases.

The committee further stated in its formal announcement that while it is appreciated that these assignments may not meet the personal convenience of all the entrants, the committee will emphatically and firmly adhere to the rule which it has adopted—that it will not, irrespective of its wishes to personally accommodate all entrants, change either the time or date or partners assigned, and the pairings will obtain throughout the qualifying days, except, perhaps, in the case of out-of-town guests. If the time, date or partner assigned does not meet with the convenience of the entrant, he will be expected either to accept it or to notify the committee promptly of his desire to withdraw.

Entry List Closed to Resident Golfers.

So far as resident golfers are concerned the committee announces that the entry list is positively closed. No post-entries will be accepted, except in case of out-of-town guests, and they will only be accommodated if time is available. In view of the necessity of assigning Monday as an additional qualifying day, no practice rounds will be permitted on the course on that day, and only those entered for qualifying on that day will be permitted to play. The committee further states that it will, of necessity, be compelled to disqualify any contestant who is not ready to commence play at the time assigned. No exception will be made, except possibly in the case of out-of-town guests.

The pairings which already have been tentatively listed have been made on the basis of first come, first served, and no discrimination has been knowingly made in favor or against any one. These pairings will be published tomorrow morning. Chairman James stated yesterday afternoon that notwithstanding the enormous entry list, the club would adhere to its announcement that only five sixteens will be allowed to qualify.

The first round of match play in the Woodmont Club handicap championship for women resulted yesterday as follows:

First flight—Mrs. Gilbert Hahn, 26, defeated Miss Sylvia Sherry, 24, and; Mrs. Jack Shulman, 23, defeated Mrs. Sylvan Bensinger, 34, 3 and 1; Mrs. Theodore Berger, 24, defeated Mrs. E. B. Nordlinger, 33, 1 up; Mrs. Jerome Meyer, 22, defeated Mrs. David Simon, 34, 9 and 7.

Second flight—Mrs. Joseph D. Kaufman, 16, defeated bye; Mrs. D. A. Baer, 16, defeated Miss Caroline Kaufman, 16, 2 up; Mrs. Philip Peyser, 16, defeated Mrs. David Gross, 16, 4 and 3; Mrs. Harry Kaufman, 16, defeated Mrs. A. J. Stephens, 2 and 1.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

IN 1450 Guttenberg introduced printing into Europe. However, the art was known to the Chinese in 50 B. C.

Nine centuries before Guttenberg invented his press, the Chinese already were publishing newspapers. One thousand years ago the Kin Pan began publishing in Peking, and it is still issued today. At first it was published monthly, but later became a daily.

A fat person floats more readily in water than a lean person, because fat is lighter than muscle and bone. Therefore, in proportion to size, the fat person is lighter than a lean one.

"Monistera Deliciosa," the strange "salad" plant, is a native of Trinidad. The plant is truly a mixed fruit salad all in itself. It resembles an ear of corn which rests in a setting, giving it the appearance of a lily. The fruit has a delicious taste, resembling a combination of pineapple, strawberries and bananas.

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WASHINGTON PARK RACE TRACK, Chicago, June 3.—Large fields have been entered in most of the events on the card at Washington Park tomorrow, but an allowance affair, a test over the 1-mile course, for 3-year-olds and upward, which features the program, received only six contestants. However, the field is well matched and should result in a spirited battle for the purse in the fourth race.

BARGELLO, from the C. V. Whitney string, appears a standout in this number and should romp to an easy victory in the mile feature. G. Collins' fleet mare, THISTLE FYRN, in receipt of 10 pounds from the Whitneyite, should force the pace. KADIAK is attaining his best form and should hold the others safe.

In the secondary event, fifth race, JEAN LAFITTE, from the F. A. Carreaud Stable, a winner at this track at a distance, is nicely suited by the conditions and figures best of his five rivals. NOSTAW displayed a smart performance in his last to finish second to the speedy Sweep All at 1 mile and should battle it out with the top one. JOEY BIBB weakened in his last effort but may last to save the minor award. KENESHAW is an outside possibility.

FIRST RACE—F. Rucker's recent graduate, FLUENT, scored in impressive style in that winning effort and should repeat against the same company. ELSIEN BRUCE, in the K. Bruce Stable, raced consistently at Aurora, scoring in one dash and finishing second in her final start. She is favored for the place. COUSIN JUDY should finish in the money.

SECOND RACE—BOB ROGERS, the Jones Stock Farm's shifty 7-year-old speedster, a double winner at Aurora, has trained well for his campaign in Chicago and on his brilliant past efforts is the logical choice. AGITATOR has been freshened up by a brief rest and returns in prime condition. LEFLORE has been close up in recent sprints, but does not figure to catch the top one.

THIRD REST—The highly regarded Headley youngster, INDIAN RUNNER, is favored to show the way to this band of 2-year-olds. An easy winner in his last start, the Dis Donc colt figures to duplicate here. The chief contender will be the Everglade Stable's DYAIK. This smart trick turned in a splendid performance last start and is favored for the runner-up position. CEETEE scored easily in his debut over a muddy track, but should last to save the show.

SIXTH RACE—PRINCESS EDITH is selected to show the way in this ordinary field. GREY GULL, from the Superior string, has shown speed over a distance and should race to the place. LILLIAN T. is inconsistent, but appears best of the others.

SEVENTH RACE — REVERBERATE, a recent winner, has the speed of this class and is given the call. ELYSIUM, from the C. V. Whitney string, has displayed speed, but is very erratic, yet should account for the place. SAN PRESTO is at the top of his form and may take down the entire purse.

GRID COACH NEAR DEATH.

Minneapolis, June 3 (A.P.).—Dr. H. L. Williams, former football coach and originator of the famous "shift," of the University of Minnesota, suffering from heart disease, was in a critical condition in a hospital today.

His condition was described by his physician, Dr. Edwin L. Gardner, as "very critical." His illness was complicated by lung trouble. He has been in the hospital several months.

FIGHTS FAIL TO PLEASE FASCISTI

Knives Thrown Into Ring After U. S. Amateurs Win.

ring and his trainer shrieked like a Neapolitan hackman, the galleries began to rain wads of paper, the rinds of antipasto, cigar butts and fragments of hot dogs, and in the downpour came the cutlery.

Trainer Addresses Latin Citizens.

The shrieks of outraged Fascism swelled to the rafters, and for fifteen minutes the air was so stiff with the voice of Italian sportsmanship that it was impossible to resume the program, if, indeed, the Fascist boxing team could be induced to take a defeat without picking up their marbles entirely.

The Italian trainer, whose name turned out to be Edouardo Garenza, presently gentled his fighter down the steps from the ring and escorted him back into the caverns where the dressing rooms are, then returned to shrill his protests to a number of Latin citizens with that influential appearance, who were sitting at the ringside. Then he flounced back to join his team in the wings as the squaking rose shriller and shriller and the timekeeper yanked the lanyard of his big, noisy gong in a futile effort to make it heard

CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE SENIOR LEADERS IN BATTLES SUNDAY

Olmsteds and Linworths to Clash

Francs and Roamers Meet; Five Teams Are Unbeaten.

District, Montgomery Unlimiteds Facing Important Frays.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

THE leadership of both senior sections will be at stake Sunday when the Olmsted Grill and Linworth teams clash in Section A, and the Miller-Roamer and Franc Jewelers cross bats in Section B. There is one other undefeated nine in Section B, the Sterling Athletic Club, and this latter club is conceded more than an even chance of retaining its unbroken win streak as they play the woefully weak Chevy Chase nine.

This will in no wise detract from the Miller-Roamer and Franc engagement, however, since both nines have been pointing for the game from way back, and both teams have well-balanced combinations that are capable of performing at top speed for the full nine innings.

The Olmstead Grill-Linworth battle may safely be referred to as a "natural." When Bill McCrea, portly manager of the Southwest aggregation is questioned concerning his attitude toward his rivals he merely smiles, snaps his fingers and says, "The Olmsteds! Humph!" The same is true of "Snitz" Nau, who is just as portly as McCrea, and just as confident.

Nau Confident of Victory.

"Bring 'em on," says Snitz, when the Linworth subject is broached, "I just want one crack at that bunch. And when I finish with them, well—"

The game will be played on the North Ellipse starting at 3 p. m., and both teams will be accompanied by large delegations of rooters, which is a good omen for a genuine, old-fashioned sandlot game.

Sunday marks the start of the second half of the pennant race for the clubs entered in the unlimited class. The Dixie Pigs are on top in Section A, thanks to last Sunday's downpour which came in the third inning of their contest with the St. Joseph's team, the latter crew leading by a wide margin. The Capitol Heights, a cocky little band of youngsters who have turned back older and more experienced teams in their loop. The Heights nine boasts five straight wins, but only a miracle can save them from a second-half defeat, since every team in the league is oiling up the old flintlock for them.

The Pigs, getting back to section A, have an uncomfortable task on their hands for Sunday with the powerful and improved Columbia Heights nine as guests on the Berwyn field. The Business Men suffered their only defeat at the hands of the barbecue boys in the first half, and to say that they are out for revenge would be putting it mildly. The game will have an important bearing on deciding the section A championship, and both aggregations are out to win.

Majestics to Tackle Medicos.

Another good battle is on tap for the followers of the Army Medicos and the Majestic Radios when these two clash on the soldier's field at Walter Reed Sunday. The Army lads took the first game by a 5-to-4 count in ten innings. Since then, however, the Medicos have slipped a bit while the Majestics have traveled like a house afire. This should develop into another close battle as both teams are casting soulful glances in the direction of the league leadership.

Two good games are on the Montgomery County League schedule with the Old Colony-Chevy Chase fracas at Garrett Park and the Bethesda Firemen-Takoma Tiger game at Cabin John. The Tigers have a good hold on the leadership of the circuit, but the Firemen have been holding back awaiting a crack at the champs. The former team bowed to the German's Bakery entry, but came right back the following week with a surprise win over the strong Old Colony tossers, who had given the Tigers a bad fright in their meeting a week previous. The hrad luck Chevy Chase team, which has unsuccessfully attempted to open its league schedule for three weeks, will finally get into action with the Old Colony tossers. "Nick" Valenza, who takes care of the Gray's publicity, says that his team will positively be up on top when taps have been sounded for the current reason, and "Nick" knows his baseball.

Preparing for Sunday's crucial game in the Capital City League, the Olmsted Grill nine yesterday defeated the Bethesda A. C. by a score of 10-5, on the Monument Grounds. The losers could get but six safeties off two Olmsted hurlers, while their own moundsmen's offerings were being slammed around at will.

Chamber Commerce Hopes To Save Richmond Baseball

Eastern League Franchise Surrendered But City Has Until Today to Raise $10,000 to Retain Club in Virginia Capital.

RICHMOND, Va., June 3 (A.P.).—Ray Ryan, representing the Richmond Baseball Corporation, this afternoon surrendered the local Eastern League franchise and players to Fred A. Voos, Jr., chairman of the executive committee of the League. Voos gave Richmond supporters until 6 p. m. tomorrow to raise $10,000 to assure continuation of professional baseball here.

Chamber of commerce officials launched a drive here this afternoon to raise the $10,000 to prevent the franchise loss. H. L. Staples, chairman of the chamber's committee, said a part was already pledged and he was optimistic of having the full amount before the time limit expires.

Books Show Club Is Self-Supporting.

Staples said he had gone over the books of the club and found that it was self-supporting despite the internal troubles that have beset the players, the fans and the league for almost a month. If the league is continued here, baseball will be played at the stadium, now used for sempro and amateur games, instead of the baseball park on Mayo's Island.

Voos came here to settle a dispute between Ryan and W. B. Bradley, which resulted Saturday in attachment of gate receipts and uniforms Saturday by Bradley and a civil suit against Ryan. Bradley claims an agreement to help pay the Mayo park rental in return for concessions and for the past two months has been operating concessions at the park under an injunction. The players salaries, due June 1, have not been paid, although Voos authorized Manager Cy Williams to retain the Richmond Club's share of the receipts and advance necessary funds to the players.

Voos said the club "would take care of itself" when it goes to Bridgeport tomorrow. In the event Richmond does not raise the guarantee, he said the club would go to some northern city.

Marines Will Honor St. Louis Shortstop

A delegation of 500 Quantico Marines, led by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commanding general of the post, will present a traveling bag to "Jimmy" Levey, of the St. Louis Browns, a reminder of his former association with the Marine Corps, when St. Louis plays here June 15.

The presentation will be made at Griffith Stadium. It was after an apprenticeship with the Marine Corps that Levey broke into the big leagues. Maj. D. L. S. Brewster, Marine Corps athletic officer, completed arrangements with Clark Griffith yesterday for honoring the St. Louis shortstop.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 3.—Ted Miller, popular Del Ray Athletic Club member, has been elected business manager of the club to succeed P. P. Clark, who recently resigned.

The Del Ray Club also elected Jeff Williams as president. He will assume his duties immediately. Williams succeeds Clark, who had held this position for a number of years and has done much to add to the prestige of the club.

It was decided to move the club-headquarters to 116 W. Oxford avenue and the next meeting of the organization will be held on Thursday. The meeting will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock by President Williams.

Business Manager Miller is seeking a game with some fast unlimited club for Sunday afternoon on Duncan Field.

Manager Ralph Scrivener, of the Alpha Delta Omega Club, wants all his players to meet at King and Washington streets at 1:40 o'clock Thursday to make the trip to Fredericksburg, Va., where they meet the Fredericksburg Elks.

Japan Beats Egypt In Davis Cup Tennis

Paris, June 3 (A.P.).—Japan advanced to the semifinals of the European zone of Davis Cup tennis play today, defeating Egypt at doubles to make it 3 matches to 0. Japan won both singles matches yesterday.

Jiro Satch and M. Kawachi paired to give Japan the victory, 6—2, 6—2, 6—1, over Wahid and Shukry, of Egypt.

Japan will meet the winner of the England-South Africa series in the semifinals.

wife's home, in Wisconsin, yesterday. His name has been placed on the voluntary retired list and after a month's rest he will try to work himself back into pitching form. He is confident that the rest cure is just what his salary wing needs.

If his arm fails to respond during his first rest period, he will take another and will lay off all season, if necessary. If, however, he finds that his arm is O. K. after the lay-off period, he will work out with some minor league club and pass a severe test before rejoining the Nats. "When I come back next time, you can bet all the money you have that I'll be ready to go right in the box and win," he stated yesterday before leaving.

Kuhel made his second unassisted double play in his last three games when he took Owens' liner in the second yesterday and stepped on first to eliminate McManus, who had led off with a walk.

In order to help out his depleted pitching staff, another batting practice pitcher has been added, Bryant Turner, who held the job earlier in the season, having been reengaged. With Turner, Melvin Pradat, Manager Johnson and Coach Schacht available to work in the pregame drills, the regular hurlers will have to do no work other than in games.

There were moans from the fans when Akers singled cleanly to center with one dead in the seventh, for with this blow went visions of a no-hit, no-run game for Burke, who had pitched hitless ball until this stage of the game.

Catcher Cliff Bolton was in disguise yesterday. He wore No. 24 uniform instead of No. 10, originally assigned him.

CAMERONIAN WINS IN ENGLISH DERBY

and debs carried Pekingeses and field glasses.

An impressive sight was the arrival of King George, attending the first Derby since his illness, and the royal family. As the six automobiles, carrying his majesty, Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and Prince George, rolled into the inclosure, the huge crowd rumbled a mighty cheer. The king appeared to get as much of a thrill out of the race as the "yokels," who trudged across country for a fleeting glimpse of the blurring line of 25 horses.

As for the horse race it was all Cameronian once the Dewar colt got out in front. Sir Andrew Hanmer's Gallini cut out the early pace, but Cameronian never was far back. Gallini opened up a lead going uphill and grimly held the advantage as the field hit the upgrade. Approaching Tattenham corner—a spot at which many a sportsman has seen his hopes dashed—Cameronian was still back of the pace, but appeared to be a certain winner. Once the Dewar colt swung into the lead Gallini backed, finishing fifth as Marcel Boussac's French-owned horse, Goyescas, got up in time to take fourth.

and Marionne Dionne, Manchester, N. H., who held tickets on Sandwich.

Walter Sharp, of Niagara Falls, Ont., and N. Vaillard, of Scranton, Pa., won $17,049 each in fourth prize money.

Boston, June 3 (A.P.).—Joseph Kennedy, Negro, whose ticket on Cameronian in the Irish Sweepstakes on the English Derby, brought him a fortune when the horse won the race, went to work as usual this morning.

When friends expressed surprise that Kennedy should continue his employment, with more than $100,000 practically within his grasp, Kennedy smiled and told them he was going to work until the face was run.

Since Kennedy's ticket was drawn he has steadfastly refused to sell any part of it. He wanted to win all or lose all.

Kennedy's wife and children are in Jamaica, West Indies, and he has expressed the intention of joining them as soon as he gets his winnings.

The victory of Cameronian was a popular one, as the Dewar ace has occupied the position of the favorite since winning the classic 2,000 guineas. As near post time as this morning he was being quoted at 4 to 1, but the huge crowd, remembering the long line of triumphs by outsiders, began to plunge on the long shots, with the result that the odds on Cameronian lengthened to 7 to 1 by the time he faced the barrier.

London, June 3 (A.P.).—Joseph Kennedy, an oiler on the steamship American Banker, "broke down" tonight and confessed to his friends that he was the American holder of the lucky $150,000 ticket on Cameronian, winner of the Derby at Epsom Downs today.

In spite of news from the United States that the winner was Joseph Kennedy, a Jamaica Negro, who also lives in Boston, the water-front friends of Joseph Kennedy, the oiler, insisted on giving a party for him tonight by way of congratulation. They insisted that Kennedy, for personal reasons, was keeping his "good fortune" quiet.

To celebrate the event they gathered in the Henley Arms "pub" in the Silvertown Dock district to drink his health.

As the evening wore on, Kennedy, who is due to sail for New York tomorrow, began to accept the congratulations.

"It seems too good to be true," he said, adding that he hoped to bring his mother now from Holyoke, Mass., back to County Kerry, Ireland.

He said, however, that he was still puzzled to know how his Boston address was given, because he gave the address of a Silvertown public house when he purchased the ticket, with a view to escaping the American income tax if he won.

Czechs Netmen Defeat Italians in Two Singles

Prague, June 3 (A.P.).—Czechoslovakia twice defeated Italy today in the first two matches of their third round European zone Davis Cup meeting.

Each of the two singles matches went four sets. Hecht, of Czechoslovakia, defeated G. de Stefani, Italian veteran, 6—4, 7—5, 3—6, 8—6, and R. Menzel beat Italy's No. 1 player, Baron H. L. de Morpurgo, 6—3, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2.

Notre Dame to Play S. California Twice

South Bend, Ind., June 3 (A.P.).—Notre Dame's football team will play the University of Southern California there in 1932 and at the Notre Dame Stadium in 1933 under terms of a new two-year contract signed today.

The Trojans meet Notre Dame here next November 21 in the final game of the old contract.

FARRELL IN 3-WAY TIE FOR OPEN LEAD

Willie Hunter had a 76 and Horton Smith and Joe Turnest 77's. Tony Manero brought up the rear of the American contingent with an 82, his usually accurate, low trajectory shots going all directions in the heavy wind.

The wind played havoc with many of the field, a third of the 109 cards today being over 80. Charles Whitcombe, the British Ryder Cup captain, was one of those who found the wind too much and posted an 80, while Archie Compston took a 77.

Most of the British hopes tonight were placed on young Henry Cotton, who broke with the Ryder Cup selection committee because he had an idea he might win the United States open and didn't want to be tied down by a rule forcing him to return to Great Britain soon after the matches.

Twince has never won a major title and has the reputation of having only about one good round in his system for each big tour. He may surprise the home folks, but he is not figured as in the same class with Cotton and Farrell as shot makers.

Showing of Argentine Quartet Attracts Attention.

Mac Smith is in a strategic spot to come up and win. Although he is a favorite with the galleries, he is not so popular with the players who have to follow him around the course. He is so slow and deliberate he holds up play. But these methods paid dividends today. After a shaky start—he was 2 over par after three holes—he steadied down and finished out the last nine in par figures.

The showing of the four Argentines, Jose Jurado, Tomasco Genta, Mario Churio and Hector Freccerro, attracted much favorable comment. Genta had a 78, Jurado and Churio 78s and Freccerro an 80. They are all spectacular wielders of the driver, brassie and heavy irons, but their approaching is often ragged and their putting unsteady. Scottish newspapers, which devote pages of detail to the open, pay the South Americans high tribute.

D. C. WOMEN BALTIMORE WINNERS

Meckley, Haynes and Williams Survive in Title Fight.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 3.—Three of the four Washington women in the championship flight in the Maryland State golf tournament came through victorious in the first round of play today at the Rolling Road Golf Club.

This trio consists of Mrs. Betty Meckley, Indian Spring; Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia, and Miss Virginia Williams, Congressional.

Mrs. William Colladay, Columbia, was defeated by Mrs. M. Louise Bell, of Rodgers Forge, Mid-Atlantic women's crown holder, after a real battle, the match going to the twentieth hole for a decision. Never during the contest was either player successful in pulling ahead by more than one hole.

Virginia Holzderber Wins Contest.

Virginia Holzderber, former State and Middle Atlantic champion, proved to be the best in the approaching and putting contest with her nine, which she made three times in succession to break ties. Mrs. William B. Hurst, jr., Mrs. H. A. Knox, Mrs. C. W. Wilhide, Miss Williams, Mrs. Bell and Miss Holzderber tied with nine each the first time.

Then the two Virginias, Holzderber and Williams, again tied with 9's, after which Miss Holzderber sank a 20-foot putt in the next play-off to take the laurels.

Miss Williams came here unheralded and unsung, but has been making an interesting showing in the tourney. Although she is said to be only 17 years old, she stroked 93 in the medal round yesterday and scored a 9 and 8 victory today.

First round results of Washingtonians:

FIRST SIXTEEN—Mrs. M. Louise Bell, Rodgers Forge, defeated Mrs. William Colladay, Columbia, 1 up in 20 holes; Mrs. Betty Meckley, Indian spring, defeated Mrs. D. E. Quantico Marines Swamp Walter Reed

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., June 3.—The Quantico post team defeated the Walter Reed Hospital 16 to 4 here today. Resio started for the Leathernecks, holding the Army to but four hits and two runs, but was relieved in the fourth by Fenton, Marine coach, who pitched an excellent game, allowing the Doughboys three hits. This was Fenton's first game this season.

Fenton has coached Marine baseball all over the world. Before coming here, he was athletic officer and coach of the Marine team in Guam. Shookshire started for the Army, but his offerings were pounded for 10 hits and 12 runs and was relieved in the fourth by Lewis, who held the Marines to 8 hits and 4 runs.

VET FIGURES TO WIN IN M. A. GOLF

Course Too Treacherous for Youths, Is Belief.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., June 3 (A.P.).—There's an old saying at the Princess Anne Country Club here, where the Middle Atlantic men's golf championship starts tomorrow, that the course is too treacherous for the youngsters. Plenty of young golfers have played well here but not consistently enough to win and although there are several prominent younger linksmen entered, the wise boys of the sporting fraternity are picking one of the oldsters to come through to the championship.

Among those expected to turn in low scores in the 18-hole qualifying round tomorrow are S. Q. Collins, champion of the local club; Lieut. T. O. Brandon, U. S. N., of Norfolk; Alexander Knapp, Baltimore and Maryland State champion; Harry B. Pitt and Donald Woodward, both of Washington; Tom Prescott, Richmond, and Warren Corkran, Baltimore.

Howell and Harper Favorites.

Among those of the youthful contingent who may prove the exception to the rule that younger players can't win here are Billy Howell, of Richmond, and Chandler Harper, of Portsmouth. Howell is the defending champion while Harper is Virginia amateur king. Howell is 19 and Harper 17. Last year Howell won the Middle Atlantic crown at Richmond.

Old-timers here recall that but two amateurs have broken the strong par barrier of 72 over this difficult course where all fairways are bounded by tall pine woods and the greens are heavily guarded. The cross winds from the nearby Atlantic Ocean often cause trouble to those golfers unaccustomed to this layout. Among those expected to enter but who withdrew today are Roland Mackenzie, of Washington, and Paul Speer, of Baltimore.

After the 18-hole qualifying round tomorrow, the 16 qualifiers for championship play start their 18-hole matches Friday. Two of these sudden death affairs are slated for Friday with two others, including the finals, set for Saturday.

Women Players Arriving for Title Event.

Among the women golfers here for the Southern tournament starting Monday are Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, of New York and New Orleans; Mrs. Kennon Roswell, of Norfolk; Mrs. David Gaut, defending champion, from Memphis, and Mrs. Ruth Raymond, of New Orleans. Miss Margaret Maddox, of New Orleans, and Mrs. Leon Solomon, of Memphis, were expected tomorrow.

REDS OBTAIN BECK.

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—Clyde Beck, utility infielder, today was released by the Cubs to the Cincinnati Reds.

Beck's release gave further rise to reports that a deal was in the offing between the two clubs. Cliff Heathcote, utility outfielder, was sent to the Reds just before the start of the season. No purchase price was announced.

The Only Tire Fact you need to know

IN selecting the tires you need for your summer driving, just remember this:

"More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

Ask yourself "WHY" is it true that

"More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

The answer lies in the fact that Goodyear has, year after year, given the public built-in quality and value which far outweighs trick comparisons and clamorous claims.

STOCK PRICES GAIN IN STRONG MARKET

Greatest Rally Since June, 1930, Adds 7.3 Points Average to Issues.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Stocks leapt nimbly out of the depths of despair today, celebrating their release with the strongest rally in nearly a year.

The average gain of 7.3 points had not been equaled since June 19, 1930, when the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite advanced 7.4 points in one of those automatic rebounds that follows a period of intense depression. Sales totaled 3,300,000 shares.

It was apparent in the last two or three sessions that the market was approaching an oversold position, for the decline had been in progress with little respite since the February peak was reached. In such a situation a piece of favorable news inevitably brings a sharp reversal of trend, and there were at least two such developments today. One, of course, was the withdrawal of Government opposition to the Standard Oil of New York-Vacuum union. The second was a reduction in margin demands by leading banks.

Interpretation of Oil News.

Wall street interpreted the oil news to mean that Washington did not intend to oppose at least within reasonable limits, economic business mergers. The petroleum industry in particular is in a position to profit by any combinations which would eliminate useless duplication of facilities and permit a speedier solution of its serious troubles. The inference naturally is that merger negotiations in other forms of trade will be encouraged by the turn in this case.

The decision to reduce margin demands to 20 per cent from 25 per cent was taken to mean that the banks believed stock quotations had reached a conservative level for collateral purposes. The financial institutions, which were said to have acted independent of each other although their announcements were made in quick succession were represented as feeling that their action would help stabilize the market by making borrowing more attractive.

Early prices were strong, but by noon quotations slipped off as fresh liquidation appeared in specialties. However, the general list appeared to have been thoroughly sold out and the turn appeared early in the afternoon, quickly becoming a rout for the shorts. The close was strong at the day's best prices.

Large Gains Recorded.

Many stocks gained 5 to 6 points net. Among them were United States Steel, Consolidated Gas, New York Central, American Can, DuPont, National Biscuit, Public Service of New Jersey and American Tobacco B. Woolworth, North American, General Motors, General Electric, Loew's, Baltimore & Ohio Pennsylvania, Canadian Pacific, Sears Roebuck and many others were up 3 to 4, while American Telephone's advance was more than 7. Union Pacific soared 8. The high score of the day went to Auburn, with 42-point climb.

The routine trade reports offered mixed commentaries of the business situation. Iron Age placed steel ingot prdouction at 42 per cent of capacity, off 2 points, but said the weakness of securities had had a depressing effect on inquiry.

It was encouraged by the gradual recession in output and noted that "exaggerated caution" was only piling up deferred requirements "which, when released, should tend to make the eventual upturn in demand more pronounced."

Power Production Down.

Electric power production still runs considerably less than a year ago, although the report for last week, covering the holiday, called attention to an improvement in the Middle Western States, where the greatest slackness has been occurring.

The drop in domestic copper to 8 cents and weakness of wheat markets on the withdrawal of support from Government agencies were other features of the rather eventful day. June wheat tumbled 5 cents a bushel at Chicago and July was off more than 2, but other months showed nominal losses.

Movement of the new crop in the Southwest has started, and this was an added bearish influence. Corn closed steady, while cotton followed stocks up, gaining $1.25 to $1.35 a bale net. Most foreign currencies sagged, although the Spanish peseta cotinued strong.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Cotton became very active and strong during the last hour on an active covering movement today and prices rebounded about $1.50 per bale from the low of the morning.

October advanced from 8.62 to 8.95 and closed at 8.91, a net gain of 26 points, while the general market closed firm within a few points of the day and with net advances of 25 to 27 points.

The opening was steady unchanged prices to 5 points lower and early in the day showed a fair amount of stability based on steadiness in the Liverpool market and some evidences of improvement in the spot demand, part of which came from abroad. An ideal weather map and a fairly satisfactory weekly weather and crop bulletin combined with unfavorable reports from the textile industry served to check buying however, and prices reacted, at one time selling back to the previous low levels for the season for the near months and at new low levels for the distant positions. The action of the stock market during the day with successive rallies and declines left traders in an uncertain frame of mind, but when the stocks developed a strong upper trend during the afternoon, the volume of buying increased and became very active toward the close. The December price declined to 8.85 at one time and rallied to 9.17, closing at 9.13.

The weekly weather and crop bulletin complained of low temperatures and slow growth over a considerable area, although warmer weather in general was said to have been helpful to the new crop. The market, however, was influenced more by the technical position and the action of values was believed to have confirmed the impression in some quarters that a rally was overdue and that the market had been influenced a good deal of late by the action of the outside markets.

Liverpool cabled that the market there had declined early under liquidation and weakness in Alexandria, but rallied on covering. Exports today, 15,131, making 6,422,696 so far this season; port receipts, 1,266; U. S. port stocks, 3,182,925.

BOND PRICES STAGE RECOVERY IN RALLY

Active Issues Close Higher; Rails Record Largest Gains in Upturn.

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—The bond market staged a rally during the second half of the session today, and closing levels among the active issues were irregularly higher.

The composite average price made up of ten bonds each of rail, public utility and industrial obligations, showed a gain for the first time in eight business days. The average for railroad issues, which have suffered under consistent liquidation recently, made the largest gain.

Net gains of 1 point or more were scored by such rail issues as St. Paul 5s of 2000, the adjustment 5s and the general 4s, Chicago & Northwestern series A 4½s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Erie general 4s and refunding and improvement 5s, Great Northern 7s, Missouri Pacific series A 5½s, General 4s and several series of 5 per cent bonds; New York Central 4½s of 2013, and refunding 5s of that year; Oregon Washington 4s of 1961, Pennsylvania debenture 4½s, Southern Pacific 4½s and several issues of the St. Louis-San Francisco.

Although the recovery was most apparent among the rails, it spread also to the industrial, foreign and public utility obligations. However, as many issues of these groups were not traded in after the upturn appeared the final prices of them were reached when the trend was uncertain, a circumstance which gave the list the appearance of considerable irregularity at the close.

Argentine, Brazil and German issues made group gains, but other foreign issues divided their net changes between gains and declines. Loans of the United States Government were quiet and closed with narrow mixed changes.

An issue of $5,000,000 of West Virginia 4¼ and 5¼ per cent bonds maturing in 1 to 25 years is being offered by the Chase Securities Corporation. A bondholders protective committee has been formed for the 50-year 5 per cent gold bonds of the Pacific Coast Co.

MUTUAL LIFE HOLDS EDUCATION SESSION

Representatives of District, Nearby States in Meeting; Dr. Huebner Leads.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Springfield, Mass., is holding a regional educational conference today at its local office in the Evans Building. It will be attended by company representatives from this city, Richmond, Va., and West Virginia.

These annual meetings are held during the year throughout the country at important regional centers, and are a leading part of the company's educational plans for its representatives.

Dr. S. S. Huebner, professor of insurance at the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania, dean of the American College of Life Underwriters, who is the educational adviser of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., is in charge of the meeting. He will discuss in detail at the morning meeting the investment service of life insurance, a subject of current interest to life underwriters and to the public.

Business Risks Is Topic.

At the afternoon meeting he will discuss "Business Risks and How to Meet Them," including the property risk and life risk. Dr. Huebner's contribution to the understanding of the economic value of human life, a thought which he was among the first to develop, has caused him to be in great demand as a speaker at business and life insurance conventions.

The Washington agency of the Massachusetts Mutual, through John F. Cremen, general agent, is reporting new business for 1931 practically on a par with that of 1930 and expects to end the year with a gain over last year.

Stockholders of East Washington Savings Bank reelected all of the following directors at their annual meeting yesterday: Francis J. Kane, John C. W. Beall, James A. Donohoe, Gratz E. Dunkum, Lewis Fiemer, John Ford, W. P. C. Hazen, Henry H. McKee, Morris E. Marlow, William N. Payne, Samuel H. Walker, John C. Yost, T. Earle Bourne, Charles A. Carry, Walter H. Marlow, jr.

Building Association Meets.

The annual meeting of the Metropolis Building Association was held yesterday and all directors were reelected. They are Harry G. Wilson, John Scrivener, Edward A. Tripp, George M. Siebert, William A. Simpson, Henry M. Wiegand, Henry W. Jaeger, Martin T. Wiegand, Arthur Seagren, Harry H. Wilson and Rudolph W. Santelmann.

April sales of Fidelity annuities amounted to $6,708,000, making the month the largest in the company's history of twenty years. This figure compares with $3,984,000 in April, 1930, and exceeds the sales of September, 1930, which was the previous high record.

For the first four months of 1931 sales totaled $20,404,000, compared with $14,948,000 in the corresponding period of last year, a gain of $5,456,000. Fidelity annuities, based on investment in high-grade bonds, approved by State authorities, are written by the Fidelity Investment Association, which is the largest organization in the country devoted exclusively to granting annuities.

Curb Review

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Stock prices in the curb market rallied briskly today as the ebbing tide turned after two weeks of steadily declining prices.

The broad advance of the oils was the feature of the recovery which brought gains ranging from good fractions to 11 points. The extreme advance was registered by Vacuum, which was heavily bought following the announcement yesterday that the Government did not contemplate carrying its fight any further against the proposed $900,000,000 merger of Vacuum and Standard of New York into the newly formed General Petroleum Co.

Apparently the street, which had regarded the suit as a test case, interpreted the action as favorable to other possible mergers in the Standard group, for petroleum shares generally joined in the upturn. Advances in other sections were of more modest proportions. It was a fairly busy session, transfers totaling 600,000 shares, or 30,000 less than yesterday.

Standard of Indiana advanced nearly 3, Gulf moved up 4, Humble 3, Saxet 1, and Cities Service and Imperial nearly a point. General Petroleum, traded on a when issued basis, quickly advanced 2 points, to 15, its closing figure. Vacuum, which opened at 29¼, up 5⅞, sold as high as 34⅞ and closed at 34½, a net gain of 11⅛. Standard of Ohio slumped 3, but closed unchanged.

While utilities showed good resistance to scattered selling in the early trading, and after some irregularity advanced in strong fashion, Electric Bond & Share closed at the day's top for a gain of 3, and American Gas & Electric, American & Foreign Power warrants, Brazilian Traction, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Eastern Utilities Associates were others that moved up briskly.

Advances of a point or more were registered by American Cyanamid D, Driver Harriss new, Mead Johnson, Ford of Canada A, New York Steam & Royal Typewriter. Aluminum of America jumped 19¾ and Parker Rustproof 9¾.

New York Banks Cut Margin Requirements

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Some leading New York banks today reduced their margin requirements on loans secured by issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Reductions from 25 to 20 per cent were made by the Chase National Bank and Guaranty Trust Co. Other banks were said to be considering such a change.

The new rates apply only to brokers' call loans. Borrowings on time and mercantile loans are not affected.

—ADD WALL STREET BRIEFS—

A new issue of $2,300,000 State of Wyoming 4 per cent road bonds, due April 1, 1951, optional April 1, 1941, is being offered by a banking group at a price of 102¼ and interest yielding about 3.72 per cent to optional date and 4 per cent thereafter.

Pennsylvania Oil Reduced.

Pittsburgh, June 3 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania grade crude oil was reduced to the lowest price since August 13, 1918, today. Cuts of 25 and 15 cents a barrel were announced by leading purchasing agencies here.

HEADS MEETING

DR. S. S. HUEBNER.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—The Mercantile Bank & Trust Co., of New York, today was admitted as a member of the Federal Reserve system and will open for business tomorrow. The bank succeeds to the business of the Chelsea Bank & Trust Co., which was closed by the New York State banking department December 23 last.

Kenneth D. Steere has been elected chairman of the board of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad, to succeed Thomas C. Powell, who resigned effective July 31. Mr. Steere is a partner of Paine Webber & Co. in New York. Four new directors elected included Mr. Steere, R. C. Hyatt, a vice president of Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., Chicago; Michael J. O'Brien, resident partner of Paine, Webber & Co., in Chicago, and Hugo E. Otte, vice chairman of the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago.

O. R. Whitaker, president of Ahumada Lead Co., said it had been decided to suspend operations and close the company's property June 30. He explained that for some time the property has been operated at a loss to carry on development work, the results of which have been disappointing, and that the unfavorable metal market had caused an increase in operating loss to such an extent that the finances of the company are practically exhausted.

Directors of Phelps Dodge Corporation today reduced the annual dividend basis on the stock to $1 from $2 by declaring a quarterly payment of 25 cents a share.

Wheeling Steel Co. stockholders have approved a plan for the exchange of one share of old $100 par common stock for one share of new no-par common, each present 8 per cent preferred share to get 1 1-3 shares of new 6 per cent preferred stock, and each 10 per cent preferred share to receive 1 404-1,000ths shares of new 6 per cent preferred.

A change in the discount structure on Steel Pipe has lowered the Iron Age finished steel composite price to 2.102 cents a pound from 2.114 cents. The finished steel composite is now within $2.08 a ton of the low of 1922—1.998 cents a pound, reached late in February in that year and followed within a few weeks by an upward price trend. The steel scrap composite has declined to $9.67 a gross ton from $9.75, the seventh decline in eight weeks. The pig iron composite price is unchanged at $15.63 a gross ton.

Bonds called in whole or in part in May totaled $103,762,189, a value far in excess of the $37,439,081 in May, 1930, and substantially larger than the $51,503,802 of May, 1929, Standard Statistics Co. reports. The number of issues varied less widely—91 last month, 82 in May, 1930, and 90 in May, 1929. More than $72,000,000 of last month's calls were in the utilities division; industrials accounted for more than $13,000,000, and real estate $13,000,000.

Hallgarten & Co., and Kissell, Kinnicutt & Co., fiscal agents for the $25,000,000 Republic of Colombia 6 per cent external sinking fund gold bonds, dated July 1, 1927, due January 1, 1961, announce that the Republic of Colombia has delivered to them $241,500 principal amount of bonds, which have been redeemed through the sinking fund, leaving $23,599,500 par value of bonds outstanding.

Production of electricity by the electric light and power industry of the United States for the week ended May 30 showed a decline from the previous week, but the drop from the like week of 1930 was smaller than that shown by the preceding week. The total of 1,564,576,000 kilowatt hours was 3.8 per cent below the corresponding week last year, compared with a drop of 4.4 per cent shown by the preceding week from the like period of 1930.

Bankers active in reorganization plans of Atlantic Public Utilities, Inc., said today that after the reorganization has been completed the company and its principal subsidiaries will be acquired by the Insull interests of Chicago. The Atlantic Public Utilities was placed in receivership about a year ago.

Mail Order Sales Decline 25 Per Cent

Chicago, June 3 (A.P.).—Montgomery Ward & Co. reported tonight a sales decline of 25.96 per cent in May, 1931, compared with May, 1930.

Company officials said this decrease should not be interpreted as an indication of current business conditions. May, 1930, was abnormal in the Ward sales calendar because the company was liquidating inventories by unusual sales effort. They said that had Ward's sales followed the current trend in 1930, sales in May, 1930, and May, 1931, would have been about equal.

Steel Ingot Output Continues to Decline

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Production of steel ingots in the country's mills last week continued the gradual decline of recent weeks, the trade reviews said today. Pig iron production in May turned downward after improving for four months, foreshadowing a decrease in the output of steel ingots for the same period.

Placing the current ingot output at 42 per cent, compared with 44 per cent a week ago, Iron Age says the impressive feature of the current situation in the industry is that the recession is so gradual.

Rock Island Reduces Dividend on Common

New York, June 3 (A.P.).—Directors of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway today declared a dividend of $1 a share on the common stock which had previously been on a $5 annual basis. Regular semi-annual dividends of $3.50 and $3 were voted in the 7 per cent and 6 per cent preferred issues.

FAIRFAX TAX RATE OF $1.45 APPROVED

Levy of 80 Cents Per $100 Will Build Water Bond Reserve Fund.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

A tax rate of $1.45 on $100 valuation has been set for this year in Fairfax by the town council. Of this amount the maximum under the State law—25 cents for schools and 40 cents for roads—was set, the same as last year. The tax on bank stock was set at 80 cents. This fund will be used to care for school bond issue payments.

The council decided to levy a tax of 80 cents on $100 valuation to care for interest and sinking fund for the water bond issue, so that a reserve fund could be accumulated. The tax levied this year will be sufficient to carry all costs of the bond issue irrespective of water rent revenue. It is expected that the number of water subscribers will increase and this tax will be gradually lowered, until within a few years the municipal system will be self supporting.

Several citizens have applied for water service where water is not piped in the houses. In response, the council authorized the connection of a yard hydrant with the water main. The hook-up charge for this service will be $35, the same as for regular house connections, but the rate will be 70 cents per 1,000 gallons, instead of the regular rate of $2 per 3,000 gallons and 60 cents per 1,000 gallons additional.

B. S. Gillispie, who conferred at Culpeper with C. J. Albright, district State highway engineer, in regard to the necessary improvement to the highway through the congested part of Fairfax, reported that the State plans to widen the highway through the town. It was reported that the State Highway Commission is sending a man to Fairfax this week relative to plans to widen the Lee-Jackson highway.

A $125,000 bond issue by the town of Falls Church to pay for installation of the municipal water system was sold to Taylor, Wilson & Co., of Cincinnati, at a premium of $2,500. The council rejected sealed bids filed prior to June. Instead representatives of the various bonding houses bid on the issue at a public auction. The premium secured by the town council fixes the rate of interest at 4.85 per cent. The bonds run for 30 years.

The Falls Church water committee has announced that it is considering several sites for the town's first well.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. B. Anderson, of Lewinsville, who died Tuesday morning, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence near McLean. Interment will be in the Presbyterian Cemetery at Lewinsville.

The Women's Sewing Circle of the Pioneer Grange of Masonville will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lester Powell, near Annandale.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Falls Church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. Febery. Mrs. Lillie Shreve will act as assistant hostess.

Commencement exercises of St. James' Catholic Academy will be held this evening in St. James' Catholic Church, at West Falls Church.

The Volunteer and the Knights of Wesley Classes of the Southern Methodist Church Sunday School at Fairfax will present the play "Over the Hills to the Poor House," this evening in the Vienna Town Hall. Proceeds will be divided by the two classes and the Volunteer Fire Department of Vienna. The committee of the fire department in charge of the arangements includes Vernon Gowin, Lloyd E. Wright, R. M. Grinder, Carl Allensworth and Howard King.

Women of the Lewis Guild of Zion Episcopal Church at Fairfax will hold a rumage sale today in the old drug store building on Main street.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Fairfax will meet this afternon at the home of Mrs. M. Jerman.

The Woodlawn Circle of King's Daughters and Sons will meet this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Walker, at Mount Vernon.

H. B. Derr, county agricultural agent, announces that the home beautification campaign in Fairfax County is under way and many communities have special committees engaged in the work. So far Annandale leads with over 30 entries. Two silver cups have been offered, one to the town and the other to the community making the greatest improvements this year.

Leaders of the various communities recently voted to offer four additional silver cups, one each to the home, school, church and community house or parish hall in the county making the most marked improvement.

Agent Derr will show the home and garden beautification pictures and give a garden improvement contest talk this evening at 8 o'clock in the community hall at Merrifield. Preceding the lecture the Merrifield Improvement Asosciation will hold a strawberry, ice cream and cake social. Miss Corita Seoane and members of the association's entertainment committee will have charge of both events.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church at McLean plans to hold a strawberry and ice cream festival on the lawn of Dumham Hall at Lewinsville this evening. Miss Frances Hileman is chairman of the commttee on arrangements.

The Home Demonstration Club at Annandale will be entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Lillard, near Annandale. Miss Sara E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will give a demonstration on the care and cleaning of woodwork and wood finishes.

HILTON AT HOSPITAL IN GRAVE CONDITION

Hope Held for Recovery of Montgomery Senator by Physician.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

State Senator Robert G. Hilton, of Montgomery County, continued yesterday in a critical condition at Georgetown Hospital, although hope is held out for his recovery. He had been ill at his home in Rockville for several days and was removed to the hospital when his condition became serious.

Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, of Bethesda, reported last night that Senator Hilton was slightly improved, but was still in an extremely critical condition. No visitors are permitted to see the senator, who also is president of the Farmers Banking & Trust Co. of Rockville.

Senator Hilton is 54 years old and has been prominent in county and State politics and in national affairs since he started his career as assistant clerk to the county commissioners at Rockville at the age of 20. A native of Clarksburg, he is a member of one of the original families of that section.

He was elected State senator from Montgomery County in the last election, one of the hardest fought in the history of the county.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Warner Memorial Presbyterian Church at Kensington, is planning a style show and lawn party on the church grounds June 19. Proceeds will be used to send delegates to the annual Christian Endeavor Conference at Hood College, Frederick.

Mrs. Beulah Nicholson Jones, 41 years old, a life long resident of Montgomery County, died yesterday at her residence in Dickerson, Md. She had been operated on for a malignant growth in Baltimore a year ago. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Barnesville, Md. Burial will be in Monocacy Cemetery, Bealsville, Md.

Charlottesville Tax Rate to Be Reduced

10 Per Cent Cut Forecast for Virginia City in Coming Year.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 3.—It was learned from an authoritative source today that there will be a reduction of 10 per cent in city taxes that are to be paid this fall. This will mean a general saving of $30,000, or one-tenth of the $299,289 that was to have been paid into the city treasury last fall.

The new rate has already been officially agreed upon by the city commissioners. The old rate was $2.72 on $100 and the new assessment will be made upon the basis of $2.45.

Although the commissioners do not formally adopt the budget for the city until the beginning of the fiscal year, September 1, they must unofficially agree on the tax rate three months beforehand, so that the commissioner of revenue may know what rate to enter on his books.

Dr. A. B. Hooton, public health officer of the county, has presented to the board of county commissioners plans for establishment of a ward for contagious diseases in the county jail. Dr. Hooton cited as need for the ward the case of an inmate of the jail now suffering from tuberculosis.

Dr. Hooton warned against outbreaks of diseases in the jail, referring to a case in the West where prisoners, who contracted smallpox in the jail, recovered damages. He suggested that all prisoners, when brought to the jail to serve sentence, be inoculated against typhoid fever and vaccinated against smallpox.

Dr. Hooton's monthly report, made public yesterday, shows that 361 children were examined in 20 preschool clinics last month. Of the children examined, 228 were vaccinated for smallpox.

In addition, a dental clinic was held at Berwyn, and follow-up visits were arranged. Members of the public health staff also attended the school athletic meet at College Park to take care of any injuries, although none occurred.

School examinations have been continued and vaccinations done in the schools. Toxin-antitoxin clinics have been completed, a tuberculosis clinic held, and applications received for the preventorium. One case of tuberculosis was admitted to the State sanitarium.

Reports were received of 64 cases of measles, a larger number than during May last year, when only 27 were reported. Reports also were received of ten cases of pneumonia, but aside from this there was less disease in May this year than last.

There were 74 births this year and 71 last, with 51 deaths this year and 42 last year.

Alleging that her husband was already married when she married him in 1921, Mrs. Anna H. DeMartin, of Laurel, has filed suit for dissolution of her marriage to Vincent DeMartin, of Orange, N. J.

The woman's bill, filed through Attorney Ogle Marbury, states that she and DeMartin were married in 1921 in Laurel, and that they lived in that town until 1923, when they moved to Newark, N. J. Shortly after that, she claims, DeMartin's former wife, Mrs. Ida Harrison, of Brooklyn, N. Y., sued the man for divorce.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE AMERICAN MAYORS ABROAD.

NANCY.—A great sensation was caused in official circles here today. Civic officers are stunned. You could knock the populace over with a feather. The delegation of visiting American mayors passed through without insulting anybody.

• • • •

Dijon.—A way to avoid an embarrassing scene at the municipal banquet to American mayors was found here today. What to do with Mayor John C. Porter, of Los Angeles, and wife, who have walked out on dinners at which wine was served, had been a problem. It was solved by putting Mayor Porter in a hermetically sealed room with 20 American flags, six phonographs playing, "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," and a punchbowl filled with crackers and milk. On account of the dim lights the mayor did not discover there were no reporters present until too late to do anything about it.

• • • •

Amiens.—To save his feelings, Mayor John C. Porter was blindfolded while the delegation of American mayors passed a wine vineyard today. "I am 100 per cent American, and, as such, I am not supposed to know there are such things as grapes," said a statement issued by the mayor later. "Three cheers for the Red, White and Blue! I come from the land of the free and the home of the brave. Wine is a serpent. The Stars and Stripes forever! Make mine vanilla!"

• • • •

ORLEANS.—The official dinner tendered the mayors from the United States was not exactly a success here tonight. When a toast was proposed to Joan of Arc, the California executives refused to participate unless one was first drunk to Mrs. Aimee Semple MacPherson and her mother.

• • • •

Paris.—At a banquet given to the American mayors here yesterday the mayor of an Eastern city, who refused to give his name until he found out where he was, leaped to his feet and made a rousing if somewhat incoherent speech in which he said civilization was saved in the late war by the American people.

"France was too late getting into the struggle to help much," he declared. "For a long time we thought she would never join us!" He then slipped slowly under the table with a bottle in each hand.

Two mayors of Western cities fell out of a box at the Folies Bergere tonight. They refused to go back until they had received official verification of the fact they had fallen out. This may take several days.

• • • •

VERSAILLES. — An American mayor, who gave a fictitious name, was caught carving his initials with a jackknife in the body of Napoleon's coach during the visit to a museum here. Just as this unpleasant incident had been ironed out the police were called to drag from the Versailles pool four American mayors who had walked directly into it, thinking it was just an optical illusion.

The longer the American mayors remain here the more the French people think that maybe Mayor Porter of Los Angeles is right about prohibition.

MONTGOMERY CHIEF INVITES GRAND JURY

Head of Commission Defies Petition for Inquiry in County Affairs.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Alleging that circulation of a petition for investigation of the Montgomery County government by the county grand jury is but a continuation of the "political character assassination in Montgomery County which has been fostered and forwarded by political leaders opposed to the county administration for the past several years," Lacy Shaw, president of the Montgomery County Commissioners, last night issued a statement welcoming any investigation which can be made.

Commissioner Shaw declared that the attacks of this character became so acute less than a year ago that the county commissioners of their own volition went before the grand jury and asked it to investigate the county's affairs in order to prevent understanding of public faith and confidence in the county and its business affairs, which investigation, he charged, "was opposed publicly and privately by the very same anti-county administration leaders who are now petitioning for a similar investigation."

The grand jury at that time found books and records of the county correct and its funds properly accounted for "and returned indictments for criminal libel against four individuals who, as representatives of these antipolitical leaders had through a newspaper financed and fostered by them continually and maliciously libeled the county government," Mr. Shaw charged.

Public Credit Damage Seen.

Mr. Shaw charged further that the purpose of the petition is to damage the public credit of the country. He pointed out that a bid of 105 was offered for an issue of county bonds last week totaling $250,000 at 4½ per cent per annum interest, and that more than $1,000,000 in additional road and school bonds and $1,200,000 in park bonds are to be offered for sale shortly.

"Antipolitical leaders circulating this petition were unwilling decently and fairly to test their political strength on the question of these bond issues by filing before June 1 a petition, for a referendum because they knew that the residents of Montgomery County would support these issues and their political contentions would be defeated. They are now endeavoring by this means to ruin the credit of the county with Baltimore bankers and banking houses, to whom the county must look for the sale of these bond issues," the statement declares.

Pointing out that the county's credit standing is high and should continue to be so "and it is personally and politically reprehensible for antipolitical leaders to scuttle the county's credit by defaming for their own political advantage the integrity of the county government," Mr. Shaw further stated that "If the petitions being circulated have sufficient merit to justify the judges in referring them to the grand jury, we shall be just as eager to aid the grand jury in its investigation this time as we were in insisting upon it a year ago."

Cooperation Is Pledged.

"If it is the desire of any one in authority that the records of the county shall be audited by disinterested auditors, we shall cooperate with equal enthusiasm. We regret the expense that either of these procedures will entail, but in the interest of the maintenance of the county's credit and in an effort to assure the public of the county's integrity we shall find a way to met the expense and time to refute acusations made by those who prefer political aggrandizement rather than county prosperity.

"If the grand jury shall investigate the county's affairs we believe its report can be nothing but a repetition of the one made a year ago," Mr. Shaw said.

"These anti leaders realize that if they can undermine the county's credit and defeat the sale of these bond issues the county administration will be unable to finance the road and school improvements which have already been pledged to the people of the county, plans for which have been prepared and are now ready to be undertaken," he concluded.

Irregularities Not Specified.

The petitions, which are still in the passing-around stage, will ask Chief Judge Hammond Urquer and Associate Judges Robert B. Peter and Arthur D. Willard to cal an extraordinary session of the county grand jury for the purpose of investigating alleged, but unspecified, defalcations and other alleged irregularities on the part of public officers in Montgomery County.

The petitions represent that there is now a grave and serious condition which is vitally affecting the morals and welfare of the people of the county, which is of such an emergency nature as to warrant immediate action. The court is further asked to authorize the State's attorney to employ a competent, out of the State, certified accountant to examine the county records and appear before the grand jury in the event the inquiry is ordered.

Progressive Democratic leaders, otherwise known as anti-administration leaders, yesterday denied authorship of the petitions, although they did not deny that they were interested in them.

Two Share Estate Left by Mrs. Gould

Bulk of $100,000 Willed Sister by Actress, Probate Shows.

Lynchburg, Va., June 3 (A.P.).—Two persons, a sister and a caretaker, will share in the $100,000 estate left by the late Mrs. Katherine Virginia Gould, actress and estranged wife of the multimillionaire Howard Gould, it was learned here today. Mrs. Gould died in a Lynchburg hospital on December 24, 1930.

In a will probated before the Surrogate's Court of New York County, N. Y., and the Circuit Court of Bedford County, Va., the one-time florodora girl gave almost her entire personal and real property to a sister, Miss Ella May Clemons, of San Francisco. To Sidney R. Ballou, for several years superintendent of her Blue Gap Farm, near Lynchburg, Mrs. Gould left her household belongings, except for mahogany furniture, a library and automobile.

The Guaranty Trust Co. of New York was named executor, but declined to qualify in Virginia. It will handle the bulk of her estate, which is represented in securities and cash in New York, and paintings and furniture stored in Washington.
